Reds Ready To Discuss New Plans
For Evacuating French WoundedEast And West
To Open Secret
Indochina Talks

GENEVA, May 16 (AP)—East and West squared off today for a new closed door approach to end the conflict in Indochina. The indications were that this, too, would develop into another verbal slug-fest.

For the first time in almost a month of negotiation on the Korean and Indochinese issues, there were no meetings today between heads of the Western delegations here, nor even, so far as could be learned, between their aides on the second or third levels. The same, perhaps, was true on the Communist side, for no activity could be detected at Russia or Red Chinese headquarters.

"Restricted" Meetings

The West has already mapped out a demand for a prompt armistice in the Indochina fighting. It will be presented to the Communists tomorrow when the conference resumes on a "restricted" basis. "Restricted" means that each chief of delegation will be accompanied by only three aides, and that press officers will be excluded.

The six delegations on the Western side in the Indochinese negotiations—the United States, Britain, France, Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia—except the French Foreign Secretary, are expected to respond to a demand for political concessions as the price for a quick cease-fire in Indochina.

The Western Big Three—United States, Britain and France—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault—have agreed to oppose such a Communist tactic.

French Plan Prepared

Experts of the Western delegations scheduled a huddle tomorrow morning, prior to the closed door session, to put the final touches on a detailed French plan for a quick Indochina armistice. This, it was reported, will be roughly the same as Bidault's original project, but spelled out more fully.

Bidault's proposal was divided into two parts, one for Viet Nam and the other for Laos and Cambodia. In Laos and Cambodia, he suggested withdrawal of all Viet-minh troops and the disarming of rebel guerrillas, leaving the present pro-French governments in full control.

For Viet Nam, he proposed the disarming of guerrillas, and the withdrawal of both French and rebel regulars to certain zones—which he did not specify—during negotiations for a political settlement. In both cases, the withdrawals would be internationally supervised.

Young D'Alesandro
Faces Trial Today

SALISBURY, Md., May 16 (AP)—The son of Baltimore's mayor goes on trial here tomorrow on a charge of committing perjury in court action involving morals offenses against two teenage girls.

Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro is accused of lying under oath when he testified in Baltimore Criminal Court he had never seen the girls before. He was acquitted on charges of statutory rape of the older girl.

Young D'Alesandro was one of 14 youths, many sons of influential residents of Baltimore's Little Italy, accused of rape, perverted sexual acts, or both, with the two girls in a Baltimore apartment last July.

Grocer, Sister Overpower
Bandits, Leave One Dead

CLEVELAND, May 16 (AP)—Using a gun and fists, a grocer and his sister overpowered two men who held up their store today, and left one armed robber dead and the other captured.

Sidney Nagelbush, 39, who operates the Eagle Supermarket, suffered a scalp wound as he subdued the men, with the help of his sister, Mrs. Pauline Dolin, 45, and some neighbors.

Police identified the dead man as Benjamin T. Stanley, who collapsed and died after he ran from the store. His companion, identified as William Jackson, 41, suffered scalp wounds.

About $400 taken from the store cash register was found in Stanley's pockets, police said. He ran out of the store behind some apartment buildings and was found dead

AT CROSSROADS—The big question in Ireland's general election tomorrow is whether Prime Minister Eamon de Valera (above) will continue in power. De Valera will fall if his Fianna Fail Party drops even a few seats in the Parliament. If he doesn't get a working majority for his party, then the Brooklyn-born de Valera, head of the regular French liaison mission for evacuation of the wounded, apparently did not make the trip.

Negro Parolee
Sought In Four
Slayings Seized

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 16 (AP)—Tom Williams, Negro parolee wanted in connection with four slayings, was captured by the National Guard at 10:15 p.m. tonight to bring to an end a manhunt involving hundreds of incensed citizens.

W. O. Smith of the Moultrie Police Department said Williams was being taken to Valdosta by the state patrol. No other details were immediately available.

Telephones to the police and sheriff's offices here were immediately flooded by calls from anxious citizens, many of whom had spent sleepless hours in the huge posse that had searched for Williams since last night.

Hundreds of citizens, many of them armed, joined police and national guardsmen in a posse that began its search around a swampy section east of Moultrie and later widened the circle to include the whole city.

Airlift Hits Snag
After Less Than 30 Men Removed

SAIGON, Indochina, May 16 (AP)—Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap told the French today he was willing to discuss new plans for evacuating Dien Bien Phu's wounded. The airlift of the casualties hit a snag last night after less than 30 had been removed.

A special mission flew by helicopter from Luang Prabang, Laos' capital, to Dien Bien Phu to present French views to Giap's representatives. A command spokesman in Hanoi said two officers, Maj. Roger James and Maj. Jean Roger, were charged with getting definite answers before resumption of the airlift. Dr. Pierre Huard, head of the regular French liaison mission for evacuation of the wounded, apparently did not make the trip.

The French News Agency reported from Luang Prabang that the two majors arrived at Dien Bien Phu about noon, took tea with the Vietminh commanders, visited about 50 wounded, and left again at 6 p.m.

(They were quoted as saying Dien Bien Phu is now a camp of tents made from parachutes in which supplies were dropped to the defenders. They got permission to visit the wounded on one such tent, the first visit by French officers to the wounded at Dien Bien Phu since it fell.

(Maj. James was quoted as saying French medical personnel had been barred from treating their own wounded, and Vietminh doctors alone were taking care of them. According to the two officers, repair of the airstrip to accommodate Dakotas will be a major job, requiring hundreds of workers and a demining operation.)

Reports received here yesterday said the hitch in the airlift resulted from the Vietminh's unwillingness to release any Vietnamese along with the other French Union casualties. Estimates of the wounded left stranded when Dien Bien Phu fell range from 1,300 to 2,000. Giap agreed last week to negotiate removal of the "seriously wounded."

(Reports from Hanoi that the Vietminh would limit the evacuees to about 450 prompted U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, head of the American delegation at the Geneva Conference, to issue a statement last night accusing the Vietminh of reneging on its agreement. It was at Geneva that Vietminh representatives originally agreed to permit the mercy airlift. Smith said he had assumed the plan "covered all of the wounded at Dien Bien Phu.")

USIA Opens
Drive On Red
PropagandaWorldwide Offensive
Aimed At Exposing
Communism Appeals

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency announced tonight a "worldwide offensive" in the cold war propaganda fight, aimed at exposing "spurious intellectual and ideological appeals" of Russian communism.

USIA Director Theodore C. Streibert said his agency was acting in line with a directive from President Eisenhower and the National Security Council to unmask and counter "hostile attempts to distort or to frustrate the objectives and policies of the United States."

Special instructions have been sent to 217 overseas posts to press the fight of Communist ideas and philosophy, Streibert said, to show their falsities and inconsistencies.

As the first step in the new offensive, USIA is sending to 104 overseas libraries a special list of 54 books described as "representative of scholarly research and critical analysis in Communist doctrine, strategy and methods."

Officials of the field offices were instructed by Streibert to set up the books "as a unit in a prominent place on a shelf clearly marked 'communism.'"

Streibert said the libraries also should hold more lectures and seminars on Communist strategy, in theory and practice, and should promote further distribution of the special list of books and their translation into other languages.

"Communism has developed historically on the basis of spurious intellectual and ideological appeals," Streibert wrote the field offices. "Many thinking people in various parts of the world, in their enthusiasm for the much publicized theoretical goals of communism, have been blinded to its true aims and practices. These persons have become, in effect, unwitting tools of a ruthless strategy aimed at human enslavement."

"Books offer the best means of reaching these influential thinkers with cogent facts and documented, scholarly arguments."

Negro Couple's
Home Fired On

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6 (AP)—At least six shots were fired today into the new home of a Negro couple in a white neighborhood.

A cross was burned last night on an adjoining vacant lot and, earlier, two rocks were hurled through a living room window.

Andrew E. Wade IV, a Negro electrical contractor, said the home was bought for him by a white couple, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Braden, and the deed was transferred later.

Wade, his wife and 2½-year-old daughter moved into the house Friday over the protests of its builder. There was no disturbance the first day or night.

But when the family arrived home last night, they said, they found a large front window had been smashed.

Wade said he watched as five men entered and looted the large cross near the house about 10:30 p.m. last night.

The shots were heard about 2:30 a.m. today and bullet damage was found in the kitchen.

Senators Urge
Asiatic Nations
Form Coalition

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Sens. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) called on the nations of Southeast Asia today to form a mutual security pact, backed by the United States and her allies, to prevent the Communists from gobbling up the Far East country by country.

Both senators stressed that such a coalition must be formed by the Asiatic nations themselves rather than by joining an organization dominated by the United States, Britain, France, New Zealand and Australia.

Discuss Crisis On Radio

"If we don't bring those people primarily concerned into this picture," Mansfield said, "then I think the outlook is pretty hopeless."

In discussing the Far East crisis with Knowland on the CBS radio show "The Leading Question," Mansfield proposed that the security pact be supported by "a sort of Monroe Doctrine," to be voiced by a leader like Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Behind this "Asiatic Southeast Asia pact," he suggested, "would be the might of the United States and other interested nations."

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said he disagreed with Mansfield that the pact be held up until India "might come into the picture."

Knowland said action must be taken quickly because, "If we sit idly by and permit the Chinese Communists to overrun the balance of Southeast Asia, they are ultimately going to take over Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, Indonesia, India and Pakistan."

Mansfield said he opposed the United States sending military forces to Indochina because the Communists, if pressed, could call on the Chinese Reds and Soviet Russia for manpower which this country couldn't match.

Heroine Of Fallen
French Fort Alive

SAIGON, Indochina, May 16 (AP)—The official Viet Nam News Agency said today Nurse Genevieve de Galard Terraube, only woman among the thousands of defenders of Dien Bien Phu, is alive and well.

Basing its report on talks with medical personnel returning after contacts with the Vietminh at the fallen fortress, the agency said none of the French doctors there had been killed.

Lt. de Galard, 28, blonde and blue-eyed, went to Dien Bien Phu for a day but was trapped there in its bitter last days.

She worked zealously at the side of the wounded. Her last message before the fall of the fortress said she was in good spirits.

Lie Test Clears
Slaying Suspect

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—A woman who saw her escort slain today picked a 26-year-old ex-convict out of a police lineup today as the alleged killer, but a lie detector test cleared him.

Asst. State's Atty. Samuel Papanek said William Ensminger was cleared of any part in the murder of Richard Dix, 24, a radio station employee. Papanek said Ensminger was cleared after more than an hour of questioning in the police crime detection laboratory.

Earlier today Carol Giddins, 19, told police that Ensminger closely resembled the man who killed Dix, when he attempted to protect her from attempted rape. But, she said she thought her companion's assailant had a deeper voice than Ensminger.

Police said Ensminger, who claims no permanent address, was seized Saturday in connection with a burglary at the Greyhound bus depot in the Loop.

Ensminger denied the killing. He told police his home is in Kansas City but that he has been in Chicago "for six or seven years."

Senate Policy

Attack PreludeWis. Republican Feels
Administration Is Out
To Get Political Scalp

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today he is drafting a foreign policy speech which may be delivered on the Senate floor before he takes the witness stand—perhaps late this week—in his televised fight with Army officials.

McCarthy would say only that he plans to discuss American policy in Asia, but some of his friends said the speech may be the prelude to a double barreled attack on top Republican as well as Democratic critics.

While McCarthy has seemed subdued in recent days as Army Counselor John G. Adams testified in Senate subcommittee hearings that the senator and his aides sought favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, friends said McCarthy has been boiling inside at what he regards as signs that Eisenhower administration officials are out to get his political scalp.

Presidential Aide In Picture

They said McCarthy's apparent conclusion was reached on the basis of disclosures that Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., and Henry Cabot Lodge, American ambassador to the United Nations, sat in on a Jan. 21 conference which started the chain of events leading to the Army's formal charges against McCarthy and his staff.

John Adams testified that Sherman Adams suggested he put down in writing the alleged incidents of pressure being brought to bear by McCarthy and his aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr. From this chronology of alleged events grew the Army's formal charges.

John Adams is under orders from Chairman Mundt (R-SD) to produce before the Senate Investigations subcommittee tomorrow a written version of the oral order he said he had received not to disclose any new details of the Jan. 21 meeting.

"Complete Story" Demanded

McCarthy has demanded the "complete story" of that meeting, since at least one of those who sat in on it—Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers—has served in the past as a friendly intermediary between McCarthy and top administration officials.

A high Republican official has predicted the administration will stand by its refusal to permit the disclosure of any more details than John Adams already has given.

McCarthy and his aides, Cohn and Carr, have charged Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and John Adams with using Schine, a former McCarthy consultant, as a "hostage" in attempts to force them to drop their investigation of alleged Communists in the Army.

Earlier, the Philippine News Service reported that Taruc was on his way to Manila to surrender personally to Magsaysay.

Church Collections Taken
By College President's Son

ZEELAND, Mich., May 16 (AP)—Police Chief Al Boss said today the 29-year-old son of a college president admitted he was the calm stranger who stunned two church congregations this morning by walking off with nearly $1,400 in collections.

Chief Boss identified the young man as Irwin Lubbers Jr., son of the president of Hope College of nearby Holland. Boss said young Lubbers has been under psychiatric care.

The police chief said Lubbers called him from the home of his father to tell that he had taken the collections. Young Lubbers lives with his wife and two children at his parents' home. Boss said he went to the home and arrested Lubbers, retrieving all the money.

Boss said Lubbers would be charged with larceny from a building in Grand Haven Circuit Court tomorrow but that the judge would decide what to do in light of the young man's mental condition.

Boss said Lubbers has been treated at several private sanitariums in the area. He suffered a nervous breakdown more than a year and a half ago, Boss said.

This morning, Boss said, Lubbers had walked up the center aisle of the Garfield Park Reformed Church in Grand Rapids and, while the entire congregation watched, took the collection tray containing $900 and walked out.

Apparently no one thought anything was wrong. Later the loss was discovered.

Earlier, at the North Side Christian Reformed Church of Zeeland, Lubbers had calmly taken the collection from under the eyes of the pastor and several congregation members, Boss said.

Communist Underground

Mollie, Code Name For Secret Red Party In U. S. Born In 1948

This is the second in a series of articles revealing facts about the present underground operation of the American Communist Party gathered by the San Francisco Examiner from secret party documents and hitherto unpublished testimony by ex-Communists.

By JOHN F. ALLEN
Copyright 1954
by the San Francisco Examiner

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Mollie was born in New York City in 1948. Mollie is not a lady, but the code name for a modern secret American Communist Party, forced underground by frontal attack.

Adopted from party techniques in Western Europe and quite recently ordered by Moscow, Mollie was largely the brainchild of two men, Robert G. Thompson, now serving a penitentiary term for a Smith Act conviction, and John Lautner, an ex-Communist leader turned expert government witness.

Mollie, as the two conceived it, was to be manned by the top ten per cent of the party; the others were to merge into the American political landscape, to quit carrying cards and to destroy all outward signs of their affiliation.

The hard-core core that remained—made up of the best, most loyal and most fanatical Reds—was to establish a network of cells throughout the country. These Mollie cells were to serve a double purpose: To provide hiding places for those Red leaders fleeing indictment or conviction; to establish centers from which the revolutionary activities of the party could be directed.

There seems no doubt from the evidence at hand that this system—the unknown number of secret cells it includes—exists as very real entities today.

There is no question whatever that the Twain Harte cabin, where five Communists were arrested last August 27 in an FBI raid, was one of these cells.

And it is an ironic flip that Robert Thompson, the same man who helped form Mollie, should have been among those arrested when his first cell was exposed and destroyed.

Thompson's story serves best to outline the five-year history of Mollie, from theoretical conception to actuality, and to indicate what happens to a Communist who drops from sight.

In the summer of 1948 Thompson, then a member of the ruling body of the Communist Party in America and chairman of the New York party, was under indictment—along with ten other top Reds—for advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Negro Parolee Sought In Four Slayings Seized

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 16 (AP)—Tom Williams, Negro parolee wanted in connection with four slayings, was captured by the National Guard at 10:15 p.m. tonight to bring to an end a manhunt involving hundreds of incensed citizens.

W. O. Smith of the Moultrie Police Department said Williams was being taken to Valdosta by the state patrol. No other details were immediately available.

After the slaying yesterday of W. M. Roland and his wife at their home, feeling mounted to a frenzy in this south Georgia city. It was the second double killing in two days—all marked by throat slashings.

Searchers today turned up blood-soaked clothing at Williams' house—about 200 yards from the Roland home—and a .22 caliber rifle under planks of a nearby sawmill. Moultrie police dispatcher Charlie Vann said police officials stated the findings "definitely connected" Williams with the double slaying Friday night.

It was a .22 caliber bullet that ended the life of E. T. Norman at a drive-in grocery just outside Moultrie. Another man at the grocery, J. D. Croft, was found with his neck broken. The throats of both men had been slashed.

With one hand holding a revolver and the other draped over a picket fence he apparently tried to scale. Mrs. Dolin told police that Stanley came into the store alone as if he were shopping. Then, when he pointed a gun at the cashier's cage, she yelled, "It's a holdup," and her brother grabbed a gun.

Stanley fired twice and missed, and then Nagelbusch fired back, she said. Afterwards the two men grappled and Stanley was subdued.

While Nagelbusch attempted to tie Stanley up, Jackson came in the front door and "started to pound Sid on the back of the head with his gun," Mrs. Dolin said she joined in the fight.

Stanley escaped out the door, but Nagelbusch and neighbors overpowered Jackson and held him until police arrived.

Airlift Hits Snag After Less Than 30 Men Removed

According to the two officers, repair of the airstrip to accommodate Dakotas will be a major job, requiring hundreds of workers and a demining operation.)

Reports received here yesterday said the hitch in the airlift resulted from the Vietminh's unwillingness to release any Vietnamese along with the other French Union casualties. Estimates of the wounded left stranded when Dien Bien Phu fell range from 1,300 to 2,000. Giap agreed last week to negotiate removal of the "seriously wounded."

(Reports from Hanoi that the Vietminh would limit the evacuees to about 450 prompted U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, head of the American delegation at the Geneva Conference, to issue a statement last night accusing the Vietminh of reneging on its agreement. It was at Geneva that Vietminh representatives originally agreed to permit the mercy airlift. Smith said he had assumed the plan "covered all of the wounded at Dien Bien Phu.")

Pakistan Riot Death Toll May Reach 300

DACCA, East Pakistan, May 16 (AP)—Reports reaching here late tonight indicated 300 were killed and another 300 injured in the Adamjee jute mills area labor riots Saturday.

The reports said police had recovered 206 bodies and that eight persons had died in a hospital. The dead included a number of women and children.

Authorities were searching for more bodies in ponds and along the river banks where a large number of bodies have been found.

The number of injured admitted to hospitals in the area was reported to be 263.

Mollie, Code Name For Secret Red Party In U. S. Born In 1948

This is the second in a series of articles revealing facts about the present underground operation of the American Communist Party gathered by the San Francisco Examiner from secret party documents and hitherto unpublished testimony by ex-Communists.

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Mollie was born in New York City in 1948. Mollie is not a lady, but the code name for a modern secret American Communist Party, forced underground by frontal attack.

USIA Opens Drive On Red Propaganda

Worldwide Offensive Aimed At Exposing Communism Appeals

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency announced tonight a "worldwide offensive" in the cold war propaganda fight, aimed at exposing "spurious intellectual and ideological appeals" of Russian communism.

USIA Director Theodore C. Streibert said his agency was acting in line with a directive from President Eisenhower and the National Security Council to unmask and counter "hostile attempts to distort or to frustrate the objectives and policies of the United States."

Special instructions have been sent to 217 overseas posts to press the fight of Communist ideas and philosophy, Streibert said, to show their fallacies and inconsistencies.

As the first step in the new offensive, USIA is sending to 104 overseas libraries a special list of 54 books described as "representative of scholarly research and critical analysis in communistic doctrine, strategy and methods."

Officials of the field offices were instructed by Streibert to set up the books "as a unit in a prominent place on a shelf clearly marked 'communism.'"

Streibert said the libraries also should hold more lectures and seminars on Communist strategy, in theory and practice, and should promote further distribution of the special list of books and their translation into other languages.

"Communism has developed historically on the basis of spurious intellectual and ideological appeals," Streibert wrote the field offices. "Many thinking people in various parts of the world, in their enthusiasm for the much publicized theoretical goals of communism, have been blinded to its true aims and practices. These persons have become, in effect, unwitting tools of a ruthless strategy aimed at human enslavement."

"Books offer the best means of reaching these influential thinkers with cogent facts and documented, scholarly arguments."

Negro Couple's Home Fired On

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6 (AP)—At least six shots were fired today into the new home of a Negro couple in a white neighborhood.

A cross was burned last night on an adjoining vacant lot and, earlier, two rocks were hurled through a living room window.

Andrew E. Wade IV, a Negro electrical contractor, said the home was bought for him by a white couple, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Braden, and the deed was transferred later.

Wade, his wife and 2½-year-old daughter moved into the house Friday over the protests of its builder. There was no disturbance the first day or night.

But when the family arrived home late yesterday, they said, they found a large front window had been smashed.

Wade said he watched as five men erected and ignited a large cross near the house about 10:30 p.m. last night.

The shots were heard about 2:30 a.m. today and bullet damage was found in the kitchen.

Senators Urge Asiatic Nations Form Coalition

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Sens. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) called on the nations of Southeast Asia today to form a mutual security pact, backed by the United States and her allies, to prevent the Communists from gobbling up the Far East country by country.

Both senators stressed that such a coalition must be formed by the Asiatic nations themselves rather than by joining an organization dominated by the United States, Britain, France, New Zealand and Australia.

Discuss Crisis On Radio

"If we don't bring those people primarily concerned into this picture," Mansfield said, "then I think the outlook is pretty hopeless."

In discussing the Far East crisis with Knowland on the CBS radio show "The Leading Question," Mansfield proposed that the security pact be supported by "a sort of Monroe Doctrine," to be voiced by a leader like Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Behind this "Asiatic Southeast Asia pact," he suggested, "would be the might of the United States and other interested nations."

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said he disagreed with Mansfield that the pact be held up until India "might come into the picture."

Knowland Says Speed Vital
Knowland said action must be taken quickly because, "If we sit idly by and permit the Chinese Communists to overrun the balance of Southeast Asia, they are ultimately going to take over Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, Indonesia, India and Pakistan."

Mansfield said he opposed the United States sending military forces to Indochina because the Communists, if pressed, could call on the Chinese Reds and Soviet Russia for manpower which this country couldn't match.

Heroine Of Fallen French Fort Alive

SAIGON, Indochina, May 16 (AP)—The official Viet Nam News Agency said today Nurse Genevieve de Galard Terraube, only woman among the thousands of defenders of Dien Bien Phu, is alive and well.

Basing its report on talks with medical personnel returning after contacts with the Vietminh at the fallen fortress, the agency said none of the French doctors there had been killed.

Lt. de Galard, 28, blonde and blue-eyed, went to Dien Bien Phu for a day but was trapped there in its bitter last days.

She worked zealously at the side of the wounded. Her last message before the fall of the fortress said she was in good spirits.

Lie Test Clears Slaying Suspect

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—A woman who saw her escort slain today picked a 26-year-old ex-convict out of a police lineup today as the alleged killer, but a lie detector test cleared him.

Asst. State's Atty. Samuel Papanek said William Ensminger was cleared of any part in the murder of Richard Dix, 24, a radio station employee. Papanek said Ensminger was cleared after more than an hour of questioning in the police crime detection laboratory.

Earlier today Carol Giddins, 19, told police that Ensminger closely resembled the man who killed Dix, when he attempted to protect her from attempted rape. But, she said she thought her companion's assailant had a deeper voice than Ensminger.

Police said Ensminger, who claims no permanent address, was seized Saturday in connection with a burglary at the Greyhound bus depot in the Loop.

Ensminger denied the killing. He told police his home is in Kansas City but that he has been in Chicago "for six or seven years."

Senate Policy Address Seen Attack Prelude

Wis. Republican Feels Administration Is Out To Get Political Scalp

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today he is drafting a foreign policy speech which may be delivered on the Senate floor before he takes the witness stand—perhaps late this week—in his televised fight with Army officials.

McCarthy would say only that he plans to discuss American policy in Asia, but some of his friends said the speech may be the prelude to a double barreled attack on top Republican as well as Democratic critics.

While McCarthy has seemed subdued in recent days as Army Counselor John G. Adams testified in Senate subcommittee hearings that the senator and his aides sought favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, friends said McCarthy has been boiling inside at what he regards as signs that Eisenhower administration officials are out to get his political scalp.

Presidential Aide In Picture

They said McCarthy's apparent conclusion was reached on the basis of disclosures that Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., and Henry Cabot Lodge, American ambassador to the United Nations, sat in on a Jan. 21 conference which started the chain of events leading to the Army's formal charges against McCarthy and his staff.

John Adams testified that Sherman Adams suggested he put down in writing the alleged incidents of pressure being brought to bear by McCarthy and his aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr. From this chronology of alleged events grew the Army's formal charges.

John Adams is under orders from Chairman Mundt (R-SD) to produce before the Senate Investigations subcommittee tomorrow a written version of the oral order he said he had received not to disclose any new details of the Jan. 21 meeting.

"Complete Story" Demanded

McCarthy has demanded the "complete story" of that meeting, since at least one of those who sat in on it—Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers—has served in the past as a friendly intermediary between McCarthy and top administration officials.

A high Republican official has predicted the administration will stand by its refusal to permit the disclosure of any more details than John Adams already has given.

McCarthy and his aides, Cohn and Carr, have charged Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and John Adams with using Schine, a former McCarthy consultant, as a "hostage" in attempts to force them to drop their investigation of alleged Communists in the Army.

Earlier, the Philippine News Service reported that Taruc was on his way to Manila to surrender personally to Magsaysay.

Church Collections Taken By College President's Son

ZEELAND, Mich., May 16 (AP)—Police Chief Al Boss said today the 29-year-old son of a college president admitted he was the calm stranger who stunned two church congregations this morning by walking off with nearly $1,400 in collections.

Chief Boss identified the young man as Irwin Lubbers Jr., son of the president of Hope College of nearby Holland. Boss said young Lubbers has been under psychiatric care.

The police chief said Lubbers called him from the home of his father to tell that he had taken the collections. Young Lubbers lives with his wife and two children at his parents' home. Boss said he went to the home and arrested Lubbers, retrieving all the money.

Boss said Lubbers would be charged with larceny from a build-

Proposed Tunnel At Baltimore Gets Into State Political Talk

[By The Associated Press]

Mention of the proposed Baltimore harbor tunnel crept into Maryland political campaign talk today, but apparently neither main Democratic camp had accepted a suggestion that the tunnel route be used as a big campaign issue.

Instead, former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. called on the Republican administration to "stop kidding the public about reducing tolls on the (Chesapeake) Bay Bridge."

Gov. McKeldin has asked the State Roads Commission to study the possibility of lowering the tolls.

"The obvious effect of now reducing the tolls on the bridges," said Lane, "will be to increase the required tolls on the harbor tunnel." Revenues from all Maryland water toll crossings, he noted, go into one fund and the state draws on this to pay for all crossings until the last one is all paid up.

Lane's statement was issued by the campaign headquarters of Dr. H.C. Byrd, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Lane heads a committee directing the Byrd campaign.

The former governor's statement did not mention the controversy over the proposed route of the harbor tunnel, which the roads commission wants to build from Fairfield, on the extreme southeast edge of Baltimore, to Canton, on a generally northeast line.

The Steamship Trade Association of Baltimore has plugged for a shorter tunnel from Fort McHenry to Canton.

When Gov. McKeldin last week rejected the association's demand for further hearings on the tunnel route, its attorney warned that the controversy would become a major political issue "if one of the Democratic candidates will pick up the ball and use it against McKeldin." The governor has filed for renomination by the Republicans.

George P. Mahoney, Byrd's opponent for the Democratic nomination, concentrated his weekend campaign efforts on picturing Byrd as a candidate dominated by political bosses and said he had two examples to prove it.

One example was the omission of State Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, seeking the attorney general nomination on the Byrd ticket, from a slate of candidates endorsed by James H. (Jack) Pollack, Baltimore political leader.

The Trenton Democratic Club headed by Pollack came out for Byrd. Pollack indicated he would back Sybert in a later announcement.

Mahoney also cited the absence of Sybert's name from a sample ballot issued by the Second Ward

Pontiff Urges Return To Old Christianity

VATICAN CITY, May 16 (AP)—Pope Pius appealed today for a return to old-time Christianity to meet the modern dangers of rising materialism.

"In the fight against materialism," the pontiff said in a radio message to the 10th Catholic Congress at Freiburg, Switzerland, "we must give this order of the day: 'Return to original Christianity.' It applies well in these present circumstances. The Christians of the early times confronted a pagan and materialistic civilization which was in unopposed command. They dared to oppose it, and finally won, thanks to their tenacity and their great sacrifices. Imitate them."

"When we proclaimed the Marian year, for the centenary of the proclamation of the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception, it was with the precise intention and the hope of seeing, by means of the powerful intercession of Mary, the increase and strengthening of faith in the church, and in its sons and daughters, to serve as a dike against materialism, which rises like a sea."

"Material progress through research and the exploitation of natural resources continues unchecked on its way, and the church approves this evolution . . . but it adds this urgent caution: When material progress is not counter-balanced by religious strength and moral forces, there is risk that it will become a scourge for human society."

"Where else should one look for this force if not to the Catholic Church and to its faithful?"

"The thirst for pleasures is increasing in a disquieting manner. Does this fact not call upon us for simplification of the tenor of our lives, for voluntary renunciations and sacrifice?"

"In times of peril, in epochs decisive for religion, the church has always counted upon the personal sacrifices of its faithful. This is valid now as well . . ."

Five Die In Crash Of Auto And Train

TRENTON, Ill., May 16 (AP)—Five young people were killed and a sixth critically injured early today when their car was shredded by collision with a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train.

The dead were Raymond King, 22, Marlin J. Goff, 19, Horace H. Hook, 19, and Raymond Stewart, 18, all of Edwardsville, Ill., and Eleanor Clark, 19, of St. Jacobs, Ill. Donna Reed, 18, of Highland, Ill., was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at Highland where attendants said her chances of survival were slim.

Sheriff Henry Klutho of Clinton County said witnesses to the accident in another automobile told him they had stopped for crossing warning lights as the train, bound from St. Louis to New York, approached.

They said the victims' car, traveling at high speed, swerved around the stopped automobile and drove squarely into the locomotive.

Seeing Ike Big Thrill For Boys

THURMONT, Md., May 16 (AP)—The fishing was good, but seeing the President of the United States ride by was a bigger thrill for 110 boys attending a three-day annual campfire near here this week end.

The boys were the guests of 75 adults at the Brotherhood of Junge Cock's 14th annual campfire at Camp Airy. The brotherhood is a sportsmen's organization dedicated to promoting good sportsmanship along the stream. Its members have to agree to take a boy fishing at least once a year and teach him the rudiments of the sport.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove by the encampment en route to Camp David, the president's weekend retreat which also is in the Catoctin Mountains near here.

The youngsters were having chow along the bank of Big Hunting Creek yesterday afternoon when the Eisenhowers passed, and the President returned their cheers with a big smile and a wave of his wide-brimmed hat.

The campfire began Friday and ended this afternoon. Allen L. Long, 10-year-old Thurmont youngster, won the fly fishing outfit donated by baseball player Ted Williams for good stream sportsmanship. The biggest fish landed was a 22-inch rainbow trout taken by 14-year-old Donald Benson of Baltimore.

EDC Issue To Revive In French Assembly

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—The European army issue, which has been languishing for weeks under the pressure of bad news from Indochina, bounds up again in the French National Assembly this week.

On Tuesday, the Assembly's "Conference of Presidents" is scheduled to set the date for ratification debate. There is no certainty, however, that this move will speed action.

The conference, made up of the heads of the Assembly Committee and of the political parties, can come up with any one of several decisions. It could decide that:

1. No date can be set yet because of the Saar issue with Germany is not settled.
2. The debate should be put off until the fall.
3. The discussions should start soon, possibly during June. This last is not likely.

State Will Take Part In Air Force Test Of Ground Observer Corps

PIKESVILLE, Md., May 16 (AP)—Maryland, Washington and portions of adjoining states will take part in a nationwide test of the Air Force will conduct for the Ground Observer Corps late this month.

Ground observers will participate for a three-day period beginning Thursday, May 27 when four-engine bombers of the B29 type will fly over the area. Progress of the flights will be reported by Civilian Defense volunteers to their filter centers which in turn will plot the aircraft and pass the information to the Air Defense Command.

Sherlew Ewing, director of Maryland Civil Defense, urged all trained GOC volunteers to contact their local CD office or observation post supervisor for instructions. He also urged all wishing to volunteer as observers to enroll now.

About two weeks later, on June 14, an air raid test will be held in Washington and adjoining counties in Maryland and Virginia, as part of a nationwide alert.

Originally scheduled for May 12, the area test was postponed to coincide with the national test.

The area includes the District of Columbia, the counties of Montgomery, Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys in Maryland, the counties of Fairfax and Arlington and the cities of Alexandria and Falls Church in Virginia.

The test starting with the red attack siren, and ending with the white, all-clear warning, will last 10 minutes.

Plane Crash Fatal To Pa. Candidate

PITTSBURGH, May 16 (AP)—Anthony R. Kobak, 35, a candidate for Congress in the Democratic primary in McKeesport, died today of injuries suffered in an airplane crash Saturday. The pilot of the light plane, James Laurito, 34, of nearby Turtle Creek, was killed in the accident.

Kobak made the flight to test a loudspeaker system he planned to use to wind up his campaign with speeches from the air. He was opposing incumbent Mrs. Vera Buchanan for the Democratic nomination in the 39th Congressional District. Kobak, an electrician, lived in Elizabeth, near McKeesport.

Witnesses said the plane, taking off from East Pittsburgh Airport, faltered as it left the ground, then veered and struck a utility pole.

President, First Lady Return From Retreat

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower returned tonight from a weekend of rest at his Camp David lodge in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, the President arrived at the White House at 6:30 p.m. after a 60-mile drive from Thurmont, Md.

They traveled the back country roads to Washington to avoid the heavy Sunday traffic on the main highways.

At Camp David, the President and the first lady had as their guests the chief executive's youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and his wife. He is president of Pennsylvania State University.

The Milton Eisenhowers left for home by automobile about the same time the President set out for Washington.

"You know, Joe, I always believe in giving others a chance to use the telephone!"

Things may change from time to time, but courtesy and consideration for others are just as important as ever. Especially on the party line. Most party-line users keep their calls spaced out so that others may use the line, and so they won't miss important incoming calls. And they give up the line quickly in an emergency. Because they are courteous and considerate of their neighbors, everyone on the line gets better telephone service. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Proposed Tunnel At Baltimore Gets Into State Political Talk

(By The Associated Press)

Mention of the proposed Baltimore harbor tunnel crept into Maryland political campaign talk today, but apparently neither main Democratic camp had accepted a suggestion that the tunnel route be used as a big campaign issue.

Instead, former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. called on the Republican administration to "stop kidding the public about reducing tolls on the (Chesapeake) Bay Bridge."

Gov. McKeldin has asked the State Roads Commission to study the possibility of lowering the tolls.

"The obvious effect of now reducing the tolls on the bridges," said Lane, "will be to increase the required tolls on the harbor tunnel." Revenues from all Maryland water toll crossings, he noted, go into one fund and the state draws on this to pay for all crossings until the last one is all paid up.

Lane's statement was issued by the campaign headquarters of Dr. H.C. Byrd, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Lane heads a committee directing the Byrd campaign.

The former governor's statement did not mention the controversy over the proposed route of the harbor tunnel, which the roads commission wants to build from Fairfield, on the extreme southeast edge of Baltimore, to Canton, on a generally northeast line.

The Steamship Trade Association of Baltimore has plugged for a shorter tunnel from Fort McHenry to Canton.

When Gov. McKeldin last week rejected the association's demand for further hearings on the tunnel route, its attorney warned that the controversy would become a major political issue "if one of the Democratic candidates will pick up the ball and use it against McKeldin." The governor has filed for renomination by the Republicans.

George P. Mahoney, Byrd's opponent for the Democratic nomination, concentrated his weekend campaign efforts on picturing Byrd as a candidate dominated by political bosses and said he had two examples to prove it.

One example was the omission of State Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, seeking the attorney general nomination on the Byrd ticket, from a slate of candidates endorsed by James H. (Jack) Pollack, Baltimore political leader.

The Trenton Democratic Club headed by Pollack came out for Byrd. Pollack indicated he would back Sybert in a later announcement.

Mahoney also cited the absence of Sybert's name from a sample ballot issued by the Second Ward

Polish-American Democratic Club in Baltimore's First District.

The parallel omission of Sybert from both endorsements, up by Mahoney as an indication that Pollack "is calling the signals in the First District" as well as in his Fourth District and "all the other city districts into which he hopes to extend his power."

Pontiff Urges Return To Old Christianity

VATICAN CITY, May 16 (AP)—Pope Pius appealed today for a return to old-time Christianity to meet the modern dangers of rising materialism.

"In the fight against materialism," the pontiff said in a radio message to the 10th Catholic Congress at Freiburg, Switzerland, "we must give this order of the day: 'Return to original Christianity.' It applies well in these present circumstances. The Christians of the early times confronted a pagan and materialistic civilization which was in uncontestable command. They dared to oppose it, and finally won, thanks to their tenacity and their great sacrifices. Imitate them."

"When we proclaimed the Marian year, for the centenary of the proclamation of the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception, it was with the precise intention and the hope of seeing, by means of the powerful intercession of Mary, the increase and strengthening of faith in the church, and in its sons and daughters, to serve as a dike against materialism, which rises like a sea."

"Material progress through research and the exploitation of natural resources continues unchecked on its way, and the church approves this evolution . . . but it adds this urgent caution. When material progress is not counterbalanced by religious strength and moral forces, there is risk that it will become a scourge for human society."

"Where else should one look for this force if not to the Catholic Church and to its faithful?"

"The thirst for pleasures is increasing in a disquieting manner. Does this fact not call upon us for simplification of the tenor of our lives, for voluntary renunciations and sacrifice?"

"In times of peril, in epochs decisive for religion, the church has always counted upon the personal sacrifices of its faithful. This is valid now as well . . ."

Five Die In Crash Of Auto And Train

TRENTON, Ill., May 16 (AP)—Five young people were killed and a sixth critically injured early today when their car was shredded by collision with a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train.

The dead were Raymond King, 22, Marlin J. Goff, 19, Horace H. Hook, 19, and Raymond Stewart, 18, all of Edwardsville, Ill., and Eleanor Clark, 19, of St. Jacobs, Ill. Donna Reed, 18, of Highland, Ill., was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at Highland where attendants said her chances of survival were slim.

Sheriff Henry Klutho of Clinton County said witnesses to the accident in another automobile told him they had stopped for crossing warning lights as the train, bound from St. Louis to New York, approached.

They said the victims' car, traveling at high speed, swerved around the stopped automobile and drove squarely into the locomotive.

Seeing Ike Big Thrill For Boys

THURMONT, Md., May 16 (AP)—The fishing was good, but seeing the President of the United States ride by was a bigger thrill for 110 boys attending a three-day annual campfire near here this week end.

The boys were the guests of 75 adults at the Brotherhood of Jungle Cock's 14th annual campfire at Camp Alry. The brotherhood is a sportsmen's organization dedicated to promoting good sportsmanship along the stream. Its members have to agree to take a boy fishing at least once a year and teach him the rudiments of the sport.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove by the encampment en route to Camp David, the president's weekend retreat which also is in the Catoctin Mountains near here. The youngsters were having chow along the bank of Big Hunting Creek yesterday afternoon when the Eisenhowers passed, and the President returned their cheers with a big smile and a wave of his wide-brimmed hat.

The campfire began Friday and ended this afternoon. Allen L. Long, 10-year-old Thurmont youngster, won the fly fishing outfit donated by baseball player Ted Williams for good stream sportsmanship. The biggest fish landed was a 22-inch rainbow trout taken by 14-year-old Donald Benson of Baltimore.

EDC Issue To Revive In French Assembly

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—The European army issue, which has been languishing for weeks under the pressure of bad news from Indochina, bounds up again in the French National Assembly this week.

On Tuesday, the Assembly's "Conference of Presidents" is scheduled to set the date for ratification debate. There is no certainty, however, that this move will speed action.

The conference, made up of the heads of the Assembly Committee and of the political parties, can come up with any one of several decisions. It could decide that:

1. No date can be set yet because of the Saar issue with Germany is not settled.
2. The debate should be put off until the fall.
3. The discussions should start soon, possibly during June. This last is not likely.

State Will Take Part In Air Force Test Of Ground Observer Corps

PIKESVILLE, Md., May 16 (AP)—Maryland, Washington and portions of adjoining states will take part in a nationwide test the Air Force will conduct for the Ground Observer Corps late this month.

Ground observers will participate for a three-day period beginning Thursday, May 27 when four-engine bombers of the B29 type will fly over the area. Progress of the flights will be reported by Civilian Defense volunteers to their filter centers which in turn will plot the aircraft and pass the information to the Air Defense Command.

Sherlock Ewing, director of Maryland Civil Defense, urged all trained GOC volunteers to contact their local CD office or observation post supervisor for instructions. He also urged all wishing to volunteer as observers to enroll now.

About two weeks later, on June 14, an air raid test will be held in Washington and adjoining counties in Maryland and Virginia, as part of a nationwide alert.

Originally scheduled for May 12, the area test was postponed to coincide with the national test.

The area includes the District of Columbia, the counties of Montgomery, Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys in Maryland, and the counties of Fairfax and Arlington and the cities of Alexandria and Falls Church in Virginia.

The test starting with the red attack siren, and ending with the white, all-clear warning, will last 10 minutes.

Plane Crash Fatal To Pa. Candidate

PITTSBURGH, May 16 (AP)—Anthony R. Kobak, 35, a candidate for Congress in the Democratic primary in McKeesport, died today of injuries suffered in an airplane crash Saturday. The pilot of the light plane, James Laurito, 34, of nearby Turtle Creek, was killed in the accident.

Kobak made the flight to test a loudspeaker system he planned to use to wind up his campaign with speeches from the air. He was opposing incumbent Mrs. Vera Buchanan for the Democratic nomination in the 30th Congressional District. Kobak, an electrician, lived in Elizabeth, near McKeesport.

Witnesses said the plane, taking off from East Pittsburgh Airport, faltered as it left the ground, then veered and struck a utility pole.

President, First Lady Return From Retreat

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower returned tonight from a weekend of rest at his Camp David lodge in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, the President arrived at the White House at 6:30 p.m. after a 60-mile drive from Thurmont, Md. They traveled the back country roads to Washington to avoid the heavy Sunday traffic on the main highways.

At Camp David, the President and the first lady had as their guests the chief executive's youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and his wife. He is president of Pennsylvania State University.

The Milton Eisenhowers left for home by automobile about the same time the President set out for Washington.

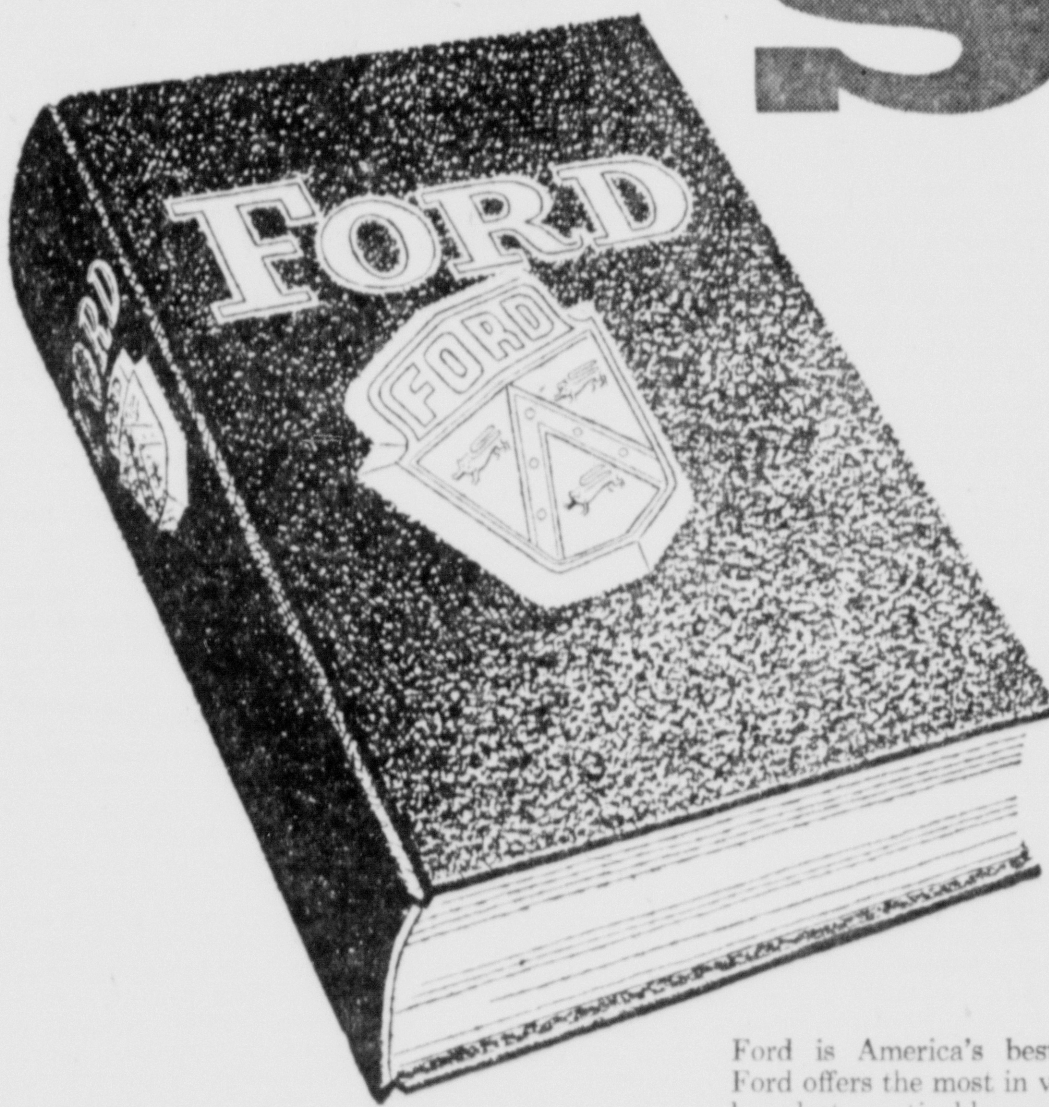

"You know, Joe, I always believe in giving others a chance to use the telephone!"

Things may change from time to time, but courtesy and consideration for others are just as important as ever. Especially on the party line. Most party-line users keep their calls spaced out so that others may use the line, and so they won't miss important incoming calls. And they give up the line quickly in an emergency. Because they are courteous and considerate of their neighbors, everyone on the line gets better telephone service. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Oakland Man Says State's Land Offer Is Far Too Low

The owner of a tract of land on Deep Creek Lake sought by the State Department of Forests and Parks for use as a public park has outlined his position as to matter of a fair price for the property.

When the department and Fulcher P. Smith, the owner, could not come to terms on a price for 70 acres of land, the state filed a condemnation proceeding against the Oakland man in Garrett County Circuit Court.

The state has posted $21,000 in court, the amount it deems reasonable for the property.

Smith has been given until Thursday to file an official show cause answer in Circuit Court as to why the land should not go for the state's price.

However, the former Ellerslie man who formerly headed the Cumberland Box Factory, publicly outlined his position in advance of the official reply he will make to the court.

Smith said in Oakland he is in favor of a public park but felt that there is more suitable land in other sections of Deep Creek Lake. He declared that he did not feel that the offer of $21,000 for the 70 acres of shoreline, made by the Department of Forests and Parks was a reasonable one. He said he did not believe that an offer of "12 cents on the dollar was a fair offer."

The land in question is near Glendale Bridge, on Meadow Mountain. The 70 acre strip has a shoreline of 5,916 feet, Smith pointed out.

A total of 1,650 feet of this area borders on the former John O. Thayer tract now owned by the state and in use as a game refuge and, according to Smith, there are at least three other areas back of his property before coming to the present state property, along the balance of that mile strip.

He said lots along the 6,000-foot frontage sought by the state could be sold at a minimum of $20 a front foot, or a total of $120,000, and that it was possible to realize $30 a front foot for some of that area. Smith rejected the price of $21,000 offered by the state on the basis of $300 an acre for the 70 acres.

The invocation will be by Mrs. John G. Cook, Lord's Prayer, sung by Mrs. Grant Durst accompanied by Mrs. John Stewart.

Orleans Road Plan Complete

Plans and specifications have been completed for the Orleans Road intersection change with U. S. Route 40, according to J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department.

The plans have been turned over to Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Allegheny County Board of Election Supervisors, so that an advertisement for bids on the project may be received. The commissioners said the expense of the road work is not included in the current budget but will be charged against the fiscal year starting July 1.

At present the Orleans Road intersects Route 40 at two separate spots about 70 feet apart. The re-routing of the road will bring the north and south sections of the Orleans Road opposite each other at Route 40. This will eliminate a bad grade and vision handicap at

'Bull Ring Ranch' Sold To Couple From Washington

The 1,000-acre "Bull Ring Ranch" along Town Creek some 18 miles east of Cumberland, has been sold to a Washington couple for about $27,000, according to a deed filed for record in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegheny County Circuit Court.

George B. Davis and Miranda J. Davis, his wife, sold the beef cattle farm to Ervin B. Ambrose and Mabel A. Ambrose, his wife, of Washington.

The deed indicates that the property includes four different tracts totaling some 1,020 acres. Davis also is selling some 90 head of beef cattle to the Washingtonians.

the southern intersection with the highway.

An advertisement is also being prepared for bids to furnish from one to five dump trucks for the County Roads Department.

This equipment will be paid from the budget starting July 1. The county is asking offers on five trucks which have become outmoded as part of the bids. Each bidder must make separate bids on their offer for the old trucks and the bid on a new truck.

General Blasts Communists In Armed Forces Day Talk

Firing a verbal barrage at Communism during the Armed Forces Day program Saturday at the fairgrounds, Brig. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, Second Army Chief of Staff, Fort Meade, also stressed the Cumberland area's "military values."

His talk to an enthusiastic crowd highlighted the city's annual event supervised by Thomas F. Conlon, civilian chairman, and Major Grant E. Hoover, project officer and unit instructor of the Army Reserve Corps here.

Pointing out that Old Fort Cumberland was used as a military base for a campaign against the French and Indians in 1755-56, he said:

Alertness Required

"For the first time in our history, the United States has an enemy who has the capability of doing considerable damage to us on our own home grounds. We have an enemy whose philosophy of life and whose economic system are so foreign and so antagonistic to our own that we have a continuous requirement to remain alert."

"We now know that the Communists will not present to us at a conference table any favorable result which they realize that we could not obtain by military effort should we decide to resort to that method."

Turning to the Far East problem, Gen. Harris stated that "un-happily, and to the severe discouragement of our fighting troops, previous whole-hearted support of our people was not always apparent in the Korean War—it indicates a tendency which we must absolutely overlook."

Demonstrations Held

Spectators were given a close-up view of military tactics and weapons as service units staged a series of demonstrations before the general's address.

Mrs. Roeder Enters Race For Mayor Of Cumberland

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Cumberland's commissioner of streets and public property for four years, announced Saturday she will be a candidate for mayor in the municipal primary June 1.

This marks another "first" for Mrs. Roeder in Cumberland's political history. Never before has a woman sought the city's top office.

In 1950, she was the first woman to win a primary position for and subsequently became the first woman elected to city council. In 1952, she was re-elected to another two-year term.

Mrs. Roeder issued the following statement:

"In the sincere conviction that I may be of greater service to my community, I announce my candidacy for the office of mayor of the City of Cumberland.

"During the next four years, decisions must be made and a program formulated and adopted to assure the economic development of the city, and the general welfare of our people.

"It is my belief that my record as commissioner of streets and public property, and my work on the council over the past four years will indicate that my experience merits the earnest consideration of all voters.

"But we are not interested in the past.

Stress Present, Future

"Cumberland's immediate present and the future should hold our attention.

"Paramount among all problems is the need for economic progress. In this one major respect the whole issue is crystal clear. We must increase and enlarge our industrial base.

"It is now imperative therefore, that proper sewage disposal is a must. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has said that Cumberland sewage should be removed from the Potomac River because clean river water is essential in the operation of their proposed plant here. The State Department of Public Health has said that the worst health menace in the state is sewage disposal in Cumberland.

"I am fully aware that the city's financial situation requires that very careful thought be given to any expenditure. But I can see no alternative to going ahead with construction of a new sewage disposal system at once. Such a plant will serve to help attract other industries to this area and will help protect the health of all our people.

"I believe careful consideration can and must be given to some self-liquidating plan of financing this construction, so that real estate will not become overburdened by additional taxation.

"I further believe that it is necessary for Cumberland's industrial future that we should carry out the engineering design laid out for us many years ago—building another dam or reservoir to retain our watershed.

"This in turn leads to another question. If we are to have a broad industrial base, we must not at this financial crisis, narrow our tax assessment base.

"I therefore, do not believe that we should now proceed on the over-extended bridge plan which is not only of debatable value but undoubtedly will destroy much of the existing taxable basis of the city.

Backs Flood Control, Parkway

"All possible methods should be pursued to accelerate work on flood control and the C & O Canal Parkway program. I believe an aggressive and active mayor, supported by an able and aggressive council, can expedite and help to successfully conclude these important projects. The city has a great stake in these federal jobs and I believe the city needs a mayor who will work toward eliminating delay and cutting red tape.

"In my earnest judgment, I believe I can bring to these issues and many other issues, knowledge, experience and forthrightness which will help our city to progress.

"On this program of progress and the removal of any matters which cause industrial stagnation, I place my appeal for the support of the voters of Cumberland."

Library Resumes

When the first Europeans came to the section now known as Illinois they found no mound builders, who formerly lived there, but did find tribes of Algonquin Indians known as the "Illini"—an Indian word meaning man. It is from these tribes that the state was named. The first white men to visit Illinois were Pere Marquette and Louis Joliet in 1673. In 1699 a mission church was built at Cahokia, the first permanent settlement in the Mississippi Valley.

Illinois became under British control in 1763 by the Treaty of Paris in which France surrendered it. In 1778 George Rogers Clark captured Kaskaskia from the English and at the end of the American Revolution the Illinois territory became part of the United States. At first a part of the Northwest Territory and later of the Indiana Territory, Illinois became a separate political entity in 1809 when the Territory of Illinois was established with Ninian Edwards as governor. Fighting with the Indians continued periodically until they were completely defeated in the Black Hawk War of 1832.

The state has been stamped as "The Lincoln Country." The famed Lincoln-Douglas debates occurred there in 1858. Lincoln was a resident of Springfield when he was elected President of the United States. He is buried in Oakridge Cemetery at Springfield.

Today Illinois supports six state universities and colleges and has many privately endowed institutions of learning which rank with the best in the country. They include the University of Chicago and Northwestern University. The University of Illinois at Urbana owns the most powerful "atom smasher" yet built—the 300-million-volt betatron, hailed as a key to many future discoveries.

Illinois "greats" have included President Lincoln, Adlai Stevenson I and Charles G. Dawes, Vice Presidents; John Deere, Cyrus H. McCormick and George H. Pullman, inventors; Jane Adams, the social worker who operated Hull House; Julius Rosenwald, the philanthropist; Frank Lloyd Wright, the architect; and John P. Altgeld, reform governor. Noted living sons of Illinois are former Governor Adlai Stevenson II and Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

Famous writers of the Prairie State include Eugene Field, Vachel Lindsay and Carl Sandburg, poets; Finley Peter Dunne, humorist; Elizabeth Enright, Edna Ferber and Ernest Hemingway, novelists; and Martin Johnson, the explorer.

Mrs. Roeder Enters Race For Mayor Of Cumberland

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Cumberland's commissioner of streets and public property for four years, announced Saturday she will be a candidate for mayor in the municipal primary June 1.

This marks another "first" for Mrs. Roeder in Cumberland's political history. Never before has a woman sought the city's top office.

In 1950, she was the first woman to win a primary position for and subsequently became the first woman elected to city council. In 1952, she was re-elected to another two-year term.

Mrs. Roeder issued the following statement:

"In the sincere conviction that I may be of greater service to my community, I announce my candidacy for the office of mayor of the City of Cumberland.

"During the next four years, decisions must be made and a program formulated and adopted to assure the economic development of the city, and the general welfare of our people.

"It is my belief that my record as commissioner of streets and public property, and my work on the council over the past four years will indicate that my experience merits the earnest consideration of all voters.

"But we are not interested in the past.

Stress Present, Future

"Cumberland's immediate present and the future should hold our attention.

"Paramount among all problems is the need for economic progress. In this one major respect the whole issue is crystal clear. We must increase and enlarge our industrial base.

"It is now imperative therefore, that proper sewage disposal is a must. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has said that Cumberland sewage should be removed from the Potomac River because clean river water is essential in the operation of their proposed plant here. The State Department of Public Health has said that the worst health menace in the state is sewage disposal in Cumberland.

"I am fully aware that the city's financial situation requires that very careful thought be given to any expenditure. But I can see no alternative to going ahead with construction of a new sewage disposal system at once. Such a plant will serve to help attract other industries to this area and will help protect the health of all our people.

"I believe careful consideration

can and must be given to some self-liquidating plan of financing this construction, so that real estate will not become over-burdened by additional taxation.

"I further believe that it is necessary for Cumberland's industrial future that we should carry out the engineering design laid out for us many years ago—building another dam or reservoir to retain our watershed.

"This in turn leads to another question. If we are to have a broad industrial base, we must not at this financial crisis, narrow our tax assessment base.

"I therefore, do not believe that we should now proceed on the overhead bridge plan which is not only of debatable value but undoubtedly will destroy much of the existing taxable basis of the city.

Bob Porterfield Knocks Chicago From Top Berth

Beats White Sox, 3-1; Keegan Cops 1st, 10-5

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—Bob Porterfield knocked the Chicago White Sox out of the American League lead today, pitching a five-hit 3-1 victory for the Washington Senators in the nightcap of a doubleheader. The Sox won the first game, 10-5.

The second game defeat dropped the Sox to second place behind the Cleveland Indians, who beat Philadelphia twice and now hold a 10-percentage point advantage.

Porterfield, upping his record to four wins in six decisions, didn't have much trouble with the Sox, who had rapped out 11 hits in the opener to give Bob Keegan his fifth victory against one loss.

The Senators' mound expert allowed the Sox a third-inning score when Minnie Minoso accounted for his sixth run-batted-in of the day by singling home Johnny Groth from second—but stayed out of anything resembling real trouble thereafter.

Meanwhile, the Senators forced Sox starter Mike Fornieles to abdicate after 6 1-3 innings, scoring one run against him on a double by Roy Sievers and singles by Tom Wright and Ed FitzGerald, in the second inning, and two more on a pair of walks and singles by Pete Runnels and Fitzgerald in the sixth. Don Johnson completed the game for Chicago.

Washington, 3-1; Chicago, 10-5. Porterfield (1-1) pitched 6 1-3 innings, allowing one run, three hits and two walks. He struck out four batters. Keegan (1-0) pitched 5 2-3 innings, allowing two runs, six hits and two walks. He struck out three batters. Johnson (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 innings, allowing one run, two hits and one walk. Baltimore's Don Larsen Snaps Yankee String, 6-2

Reynolds Wins, 2-0; 46,796 Attend Tilts

BALTIMORE, May 16 (AP)—Don Larsen, 24-year-old Baltimore right-hander, snapped a six-game New York winning streak by pitching the Orioles to a 6-2 victory in the nightcap of a double-header today before a capacity crowd of 46,796. Larsen had a no-hitter going for 7 2-3 innings and limited the Yanks to three hits after the Birds had lost the opener 2-0.

Allie Reynolds also gave up only three hits in chalking up his fourth victory in the opener. Larsen, winning his first in five starts, allowed only two men to reach base, both by walks, before his no-hit hopes were shattered. Andy Carey broke the spell in the eighth, after Eddie Robinson and Gerry Coleman had flied out, by lining Larsen's second pitch to right field.

In the ninth, Hank Bauer led off with a sharp single to left and pinch-hitter Bob Cerv blasted a home run some 15 rows up the left field bleachers to account for the two New York runs.

Les Moss and Vern Stephens sparked the Bird attack on lefty Bob Kazava, Tom Gorman and Jim McDonald, by collecting three hits apiece. Stephens powered his third homer of the year into the left field seats off McDonald, to lead off the eighth. Moss drove in three runs with a double and two singles.

The first game was held up 20 minutes by a dispute over a third-inning out by Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher, hit against the rightfield wall. The ball landed at the top of the barrier, near the 380-foot sign, bounced back onto the playing field and Berra was nailed sliding into home on a relay to catcher Clint Courtney.

New York, 2-0; Baltimore, 6-2. Reynolds (2-0) pitched 7 2-3 innings, allowing three hits and two walks. He struck out one batter. Larsen (1-0) pitched 7 2-3 innings, allowing three hits and two walks. He struck out one batter.

St. Louis Cards Trim Phillies In Opener, 7-3

Curfew Halts Second With Phils Ahead, 6-3

PHILADELPHIA, May 16 (AP)—A homer by Rip Repulski, a three-run triple by Solly Hemus and doubles by Red Schoendienst and Ray Jablonski pushed the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the lengthy first game of a scheduled double-header today.

A curfew law suspended play in the nightcap after six innings with Philadelphia ahead 6-3. The game, in which Johnny Wyrostek and Del Ennis hit successive third-inning homers, will be played off tomorrow night.

The first game, which took three hours and 27 minutes to play, was tied 2-2 in the eighth, then pitcher Jim Konstanty, the loser, watched an error, a single and a base on balls lead his bases with Redbirds.

Konstanty got a momentary respite when Joe Frazier lined into a double play. But in a few moments, after pinch-hitter Wally Moon was purposely passed, the bases were loaded again.

Hemus, batting for Alex Grammas, lined a triple off the right field wall and the Cardinals went ahead 5-2.

The Phillies scored one more run in their half of the eighth, driving winning pitcher Harvey Haddix from the box. Then in the ninth, the Cards added two more when Jablonski doubled with Schoendienst on second and Stan Musial on first. Schoendienst had reached second on his own blow and Musial was intentionally walked.

St. Louis, 7-3; Philadelphia, 6-3. Repulski (1-0) pitched 6 2-3 innings, allowing three hits and two walks. He struck out one batter. Haddix (1-0) pitched 6 2-3 innings, allowing three hits and two walks. He struck out one batter.

Garcia Hurls One-Hitter For Indians

Cleveland Takes Pair From A's, 12-7 And 6-0

CLEVELAND, May 16 (AP)—Right-hander Mike Garcia pitched a one-hitter today as the Cleveland Indians blanked the Philadelphia Athletics 6-0 in the second game of a double-header after the Indians won the first game 12-7. Shortstop Joe Demaestri, who singled to center, in the fourth inning spoiled Garcia's bid for a no-hitter.

The Indians' big right-hander, hurling his third victory against four defeats, faced only 29 batters as he led the Tribe to its fifth straight victory. He walked two and struck out five.

Garcia was given all the runs he needed in the fourth inning when the Indians bagged four against Arnold Portocarrero, two on Al Rosen's sixth home run of the season. Rosen also homered in the opener and knocked in a total of five runs.

Notre Dame Wins, 49-26

Joe Hornung Is Star In Spring Grid Tilt

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 16 (INS)—The annual spring practice football game between the Notre Dame varsity and former Irish starback has produced a husky quarter from the freshman ranks who is certain to see duty this fall.

A crowd estimated at 20,000 saw head coach Terry Brennan unveil his football squad at Notre Dame Stadium Saturday for the first time.

The 25-year-old coach made his collegiate debut an auspicious one as his varsity team rolled to a 49 to 26 victory over a star-studded array of ex-Notre Dame stars including seven regulars from the 1953 team.

However, it took the play of freshman quarterback Paul Hornung to take the starch out of the Old Timers who led on two occasions. Hornung, a Louisville, Ky., product, tossed three touchdown passes—two to another freshman player, Don Scannell.

Hornung uncorked his first touchdown strike to reserve end Don George, on a 28-yard pass that gave the varsity a 22 to 13 lead. However, sparked by Lattner and Worden, the Old Timers regained the lead.

Hornung took over again, engineering an 88-yard scoring drive which he capped with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Scannell. Early in the fourth period, Hornung took to the air again and found Scannell open and passed 44 yards for another score.

Homer in 14th

DETROIT, May 16 (AP)—Boston's terrible thumper, Ted Williams, returned to regular action today and smashed out eight hits in nine at-bats, including a pair of towering home runs—in a doubleheader against the Detroit Tigers.

Despite his magnificent hitting, the Red Sox lost both games 7-6 and 9-8—the second decided in the 14th inning on Ray Boone's home run.

Starting in left field in both games, the splendid 35-year-old slugger—who missed the first 18 games of the season with a fractured shoulder—awed a crowd of 42,957 by pounding out five singles, a double and two home runs. Williams scored three times and knocked in seven runs.

The lanky, 6-foot-3 outfielder hit singles to left, right and center in the first game. After his third safety he was replaced by pinch-runner Jim Piersall in the seventh inning. Williams was taken out in the eighth inning of the nightcap after having a perfect 5-for-5 at the plate.

Williams hammered his first home run with nobody on in the third inning, the ball sailing into the right field upper deck. Then, in a dramatic, Hollywood-type setting in the eighth inning, he drove a two-run homer off the front of the right field roof.

Fate Of Middle West Settled Two Centuries Ago

By M. E. BYRNE
Written For Central Press

Just 200 years ago an incident took place which today is still of prime importance to the United States in general and particularly for the millions of Americans who dwell in that great band of states which makes up the Ohio valley, stretching to the Great Lakes.

It was the outbreak of the long and bitter struggle called the French and Indian war.

There had been trouble before between the English and French settlers in North America—in fact, the French and Indian war is often referred to by European historians as the Fourth Intercolonial war—but the struggle which broke out in 1754 was the showdown, the big one.

The clash was inevitable because the main objective of English expansion westward in North America had a prime purpose—to prevent encroachment of the seaboard colonies by French settlements.

The prolonged and savage struggle—which had its counterpart in Europe in the Seven Years War—lasted until 1760 and resulted in complete victory for the British arms. Though the original goal of the British crown had been control of what is now the American middle west, an added plum fell to the victors—Canada.

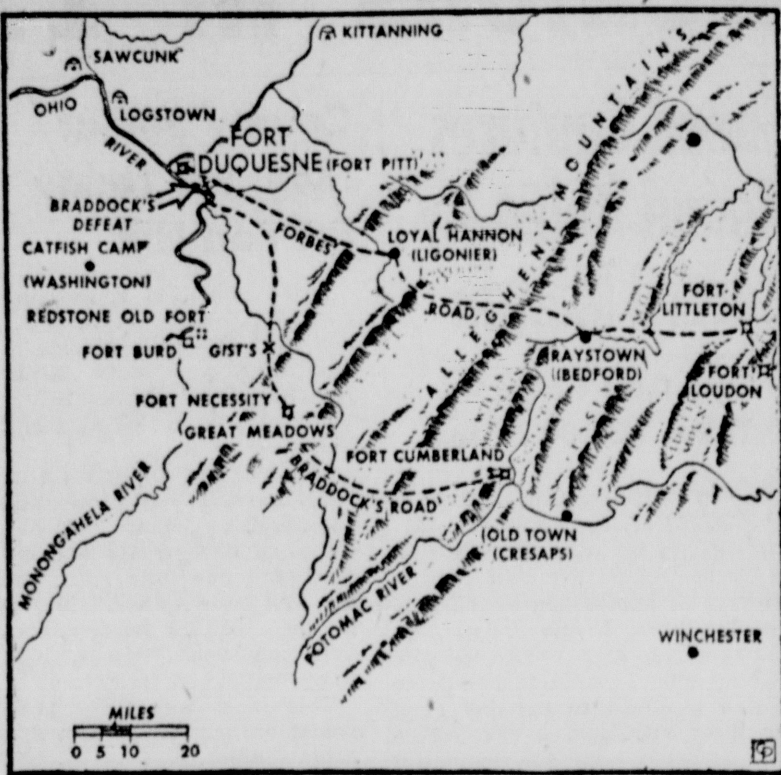

Save for the very first skirmish of the war, the first two years of the conflict brought continuous disaster to the British. One of the worst defeats was the rout of an expedition sent out under British Gen. Edward Braddock to capture Fort Duquesne, a French stronghold at the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Braddock's force of 1,300 was ambushed by some 300 Frenchmen 10 miles from the fort. The British regulars fled at the first shot. Braddock was mortally wounded and it was only through the efforts of his Colonial aide-de-camp, George Washington, who held the rank of honorary Virginia colonel, that saved the expedition from total disaster.

It was Washington's second taste of defeat at French hands. The year before, in July, he was with Colonial troops who were overwhelmed by French troops who attacked him and took Fort Necessity, forcing him to surrender.

When William Pitt took office as secretary of state in England the British began to prosecute the war with increased vigor and before long the tide began to turn. Gen. Jeffrey Amherst in July of 1758 took Louisburg. The French stronghold of Fort Frontenac fell. General Forbes finally succeeded where Braddock had failed, taking Fort Duquesne and changing its name to Fort Pitt (the Pittsburgh of today).

The French withdrew from Crown Point and Ticonderoga in New York Colony. Fort Niagara next fell to the onswearing British arms. The end of the long struggle was foreshadowed when in September of 1759 British troops under Maj. Gen. James Wolfe assaulted and captured Quebec, crushing a French force under Brig. Gen. the Marquis de Montcalm. Ironically, both Wolfe and Montcalm did not survive the battle.

Map shows Western Pennsylvania theater of operations in the French and Indian war. Broken lines show lines of march of the forces under Generals Braddock and Forbes.

One year later the war ended when Montreal fell and the French surrendered on Sept. 8, 1760. The war in Europe, where hostilities had begun later than in America, dragged on until 1763 when the Treaty of Paris was signed. The French ceding Canada as well as the American middle west to Britain. Thus ending a century and a half of warfare in North America between the two nations.

At that peace table in Paris none of the beribboned diplomats, glittering medals, gave a thought to a certain Virginia country gentleman, George Washington, who had participated so ably in the first act of the great drama now concluded.

Oldtown Man Held On Assault Charge

One man is being held in the county jail and his companion was treated in a local hospital following an assault upon an Oldtown grocery store owner Saturday night.

Russell Slider, 26, of Oldtown, is held in jail while Herb Stevey, of Jane Frazier Village, was treated for a laceration of the head. Slider will receive a trial Thursday on a charge of assaulting Melvin G. Lewis, the grocer.

According to State Police, Slider struck Lewis at the store and the grocer retaliated with a soft drink bottle. Stevey allegedly interfered to help his companion and during the melee he was struck on the head.

Troopers First Class Donald Wade and C. H. DeWitt investigated the case and took Slider into custody.

Mollie, Code Name

Underground was rapidly becoming a very real personal problem. He and Lautner and other members of a tight inner cadre worked night and day to set up Mollie's cells.

Then, in January of 1949, Thompson and the other ten went to trial before Judge Harold Medina. The now famous trial took ten months, was marked by a mob of contemptuous attorneys, picket lines and all the expected Communist propaganda paraphernalia.

The eleven were found guilty and Thompson was sentenced to a six year penitentiary term, a lighter punishment than was awarded the others because of an excellent war record.

Thompson, free on bail pending appeal, went back to his work of organizing Mollie.

In January, 1951, the United States Supreme Court upheld the convictions of Thompson and the others and their bail was ordered revoked.

On that same day Thompson disappeared into the underground, not to publicly emerge again until last August at Twain Harle. The secret network he had fashioned now was to serve him, the leading American Communist still at large.

In the intervening years it is possible to catch only occasional glimpses of the fugitive. But even from these it is possible to see that the FBI was never too far behind him.

It is known that Thompson added at least 40 pounds to his already stocky frame, that he clipped short his long brown hair and dyed his hair, his eyebrows and a new-grown mustache a revolting shade of reddish pink.

A witness was to describe him later as "sloppy fat and ikky looking."

He also changed his name to John Francis Brennan, and carried with him a forged New York City birth certificate, a social security card, and iron workers union card and other identifying documents, all in that name.

Meanwhile, unnumbered other Communist leaders had suddenly dropped from sight, to join Thompson in the underground.

There was Sidney Steinberg, for instance, the soft faced and gentle-looking party labor leader, who disappeared after a New York grand jury indicted him under the Smith Act.

He was assigned, documents indicate, to reorganizing Mollie in the West Coast, particularly in California, next to New York the country's leading Communist state. Steinberg established his headquarters at Menlo Park, complete with cropped hair, a mustache and a new personality: He was Joshua Newberg, teacher of violin and mandolin.

Samuel Coleman, sharp-faced and professional-looking, a member of the ruling party hierarchy, fled from his Manhattan home to reappear as William B. Gordon.

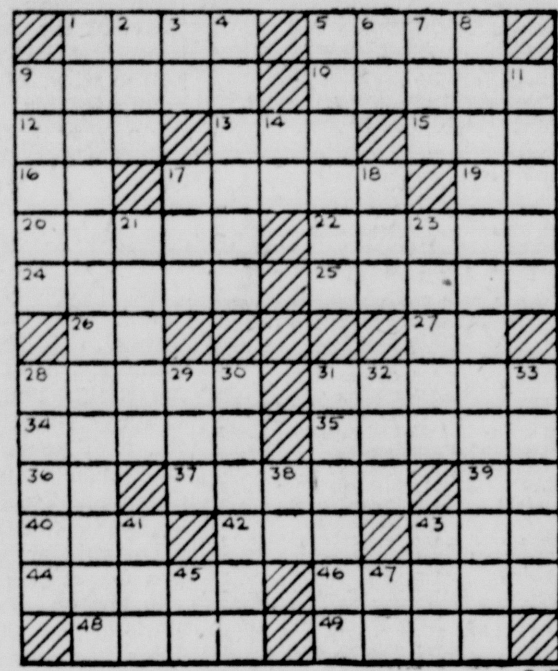

Carl Edwin Ross, the tall and pop-eyed leader of the party in the Midwest, vanished from his Minneapolis home to become Robert E. Neuman.

There were scores of others, but today their names and whereabouts are known only to the party or to the FBI—both notoriously close-mouthed groups.

For a time, in late 1951 and early 1952, Thompson was employed as a journeyman ironworker in Roanoke, Va., in May of 1953

he appeared in St. Louis, where he was joined by Coleman.

There is documentary evidence that early in the summer of last year he flew out to California to confer with Steinberg, by then already established at the Twain Harle cabin, the brain center of all West Coast underground operations. From that cabin, it is known, Thompson planned to operate the national Mollie organization, while Steinberg was to continue as head of the underground in California, Oregon and Washington.

But, before settling to his work, Thompson apparently flew east again, either for a last personal check of New York headquarters or in an attempt to divert suspicion and cover his tracks.

Over last year's July 4 holidays Thompson, Coleman and two unidentified women spent two days fishing at the Lake of the Ozarks, in Missouri.

Then the four started west in a car Coleman had purchased in St. Louis, stopping for two days more of fishing at Flathead Lake, in Montana.

On last August 20 the car, containing the two Communists and their lady friends, crossed from Oregon into California.

The men were dropped off at the Tuolumne County cabin, where the car and the women went is an FBI secret.

Just a week later a score of FBI agents closed in on the cabin with drawn guns and arrested Thompson, Steinberg, Coleman, Ross and 22-year-old Mrs. Shirley Kremen, a pretty Los Angeles City College student radical turned minor party functionary.

Now hospitals care for twice as many patients as in 1940

SINCE 1940, hospital admissions in the United States have risen from 10 million a year to 19 million. They now admit a new patient every 1.6 seconds!

There are many reasons for this dramatic increase. Our population has been growing steadily. Nine out of ten babies are now born in hospitals. Advances in medical and surgical knowledge enable hospitals to treat a wider variety of diseases. More people can afford hospital care because of hospital insurance and other pre-payment plans.

And our whole attitude toward hospitals has changed: we now call on them for help in prolonging life rather than as a last resort in serious illness.

Even though the average stay in hospitals has dropped from 12 days in 1935 to 7½ days, so many more people are being admitted that the facilities of most voluntary hospitals are seriously overburdened. What's more, their operating costs have risen sharply. Improved techniques often require expensive new equipment. And, in many cases, there is a serious shortage of nurses, attendants and other personnel. All of which has created acute problems for the voluntary hospitals of the nation.

Everyone can help by taking an active interest in the problems of the voluntary hospitals in his community. Contribute generously to hospital fund drives. Volunteer your spare-time services, too—so that highly trained hospital personnel can be freed for work that demands their special skills.

Everyone will benefit—the hospitals, your entire community!

Thompson, free on bail pending appeal, went back to his work of organizing Mollie.

In January, 1951, the United States Supreme Court upheld the convictions of Thompson and the others and their bail was ordered revoked.

On that same day Thompson disappeared into the underground, not to publicly emerge again until last August at Twain Harte. The secret network he had fashioned now was to serve him, the leading American Communist still at large.

In the intervening years it is possible to catch only occasional glimpses of the fugitive. But even from these it is possible to see that the FBI was never too far behind him.

It is known that Thompson added at least 40 pounds to his already stocky frame, that he clipped short his long brown hair and dyed his hair, his eyebrows and a new-grown mustache a revolting shade of reddish pink.

A witness was to describe him later as "sloppy fat and ikky looking."

He also changed his name to John Francis Brennan, and carried with him a forged New York City birth certificate, a social security card, and iron workers union card and other identifying documents, all in that name.

Meanwhile, unnumbered other Communist leaders had suddenly dropped from sight, to join Thompson in the underground.

There was Sidney Steinberg, for instance, the soft faced and gentle-looking party labor leader, who disappeared after a New York grand jury indicted him under the Smith Act.

He was assigned, documents indicate, to reorganizing Mollie in the West Coast, particularly in California, next to New York the country's leading Communist state. Steinberg established his headquarters at Menlo Park, complete with cropped hair, a mustache and a new personality: He was Joshua Newberg, teacher of violin and mandolin.

Samuel Coleman, sharp-faced and professional-looking, a member of the ruling party hierarchy, fled from his Manhattan home to reappear as William B. Gordon, Carl Edwin Ross, the tall and pop-eyed leader of the party in the Midwest, vanished from his Minneapolis home to become Robert E. Neuman.

There were scores of others, but today their names and whereabouts are known only to the party or to the FBI—both notoriously close-mouthed groups.

For a time, in late 1951 and early 1952, Thompson was employed as a journeyman ironworker in Roanoke, Va., in May of 1953

he appeared in St. Louis, where he was joined by Coleman.

There is documentary evidence that early in the summer of last year he flew out to California to confer with Steinberg, by then already established at the Twain Harte cabin, the brain center of all West Coast underground operations. From that cabin, it is known, Thompson planned to operate the national Mollie organization, while Steinberg was to continue as head of the underground in California, Oregon and Washington.

But, before settling to his work, Thompson apparently flew east again, either for a last personal check of New York headquarters or in an attempt to divert suspicion and cover his tracks.

Over last year's July 4 holidays Thompson, Coleman and two unidentified women spent two days fishing at the Lake of the Ozarks, in Missouri.

Then the four started west in a car Coleman had purchased in St. Louis, stopping for two days more of fishing at Flathead Lake, in Montana.

On last August 20 the car, containing the two Communists and their lady friends, crossed from Oregon into California.

The men were dropped off at the Tuolumne County cabin, where the car and the women went is an FBI secret.

Just a week later a score of FBI agents closed in on the cabin with drawn guns and arrested Thompson, Steinberg, Coleman, Ross and 22-year-old Mrs. Shirley Kremen, a pretty Los Angeles City College student radical turned minor party functionary.

Now hospitals care for twice as many patients as in 1940

SINCE 1940, hospital admissions in the United States have risen from 10 million a year to 19 million. They now admit a new patient every 1.6 seconds!

There are many reasons for this dramatic increase. Our population has been growing steadily. Nine out of ten babies are now born in hospitals. Advances in medical and surgical knowledge enable hospitals to treat a wider variety of diseases. More people can afford hospital care because of hospital insurance and other pre-payment plans.

And our whole attitude toward hospitals has changed: we now call on them for help in prolonging life rather than as a last resort in serious illness.

Even though the average stay in hospitals has dropped from 12 days in 1938 to 7½ days, so many more people are being admitted that the facilities of most voluntary hospitals are seriously overburdened. What's more, their operating costs have risen sharply. Improved techniques often require expensive new equipment. And, in many cases, there is a serious shortage of nurses, attendants and other personnel. All of which has created acute problems for the voluntary hospitals of the nation.

Everyone can help by taking an active interest in the problems of the voluntary hospitals in his community. Contribute generously to hospital fund drives. Volunteer your spare-time services, too—so that highly trained hospital personnel can be freed for work that demands their special skills.

Everyone will benefit—the hospitals, your entire community!

Something New In Child Study

Pictures of Hollywood parties frequently reveal groupings dressed as juveniles and acting more childlike than usual. Certain gatherings in Pittsburgh recently bore a delectable resemblance to such a party. Groups of adults solemnly acted out children's activities, played with toys, modeled in clay, played children's games. Most of them enjoyed all this, but these were no parties.

The adults were parents of children who had gone to mental institutions to be treated for severe emotional disturbances. Their "host" was a psychiatrist trying to prepare them for the return home of a convalescent child. This most critical period, when the child's cure or relapse may depend on his relationship with his parents, is difficult for adults.

Many parents of disturbed children have confused feelings of guilt, hostility and hopelessness which interfere with their giving the child the healing understanding he needs. At best, the irrational behavior of emotionally disturbed children is not easy to understand and tolerate.

It is a common complaint of childhood that some parents and teachers have forgotten what children are like. So several Pittsburgh psychiatrists had the inspiration to awaken such submerged memories in the parents who needed them most. Groups of these parents, acting out childhood roles, enacted scenes of eating, sleeping, drinking, playing, rivalry with brothers and sisters, etc., under the supervision of a therapist. They tried to have the feelings a child would have.

Later they got together and talked things over. When those of their children who are not tragically incurable return home, they may find an atmosphere of insight in which their restoration to emotional health can be completed.

All parents might gain in understanding and appreciation of their children by an occasional return to childhood—not via a dreary, liquored-up fancy-dress party, but in a simple reaching back to ways most adults seem to think they have to prove they have outgrown. Such an experiment might cure adults of hallucinations, too.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Learning About Government

Few Americans actually know how their government operates, what makes the wheels go round, the deals, the makeshifts, the doublecrosses, the play on small matters. Most Americans cannot believe that the great of the world are like their stories.

It is like a Russian story about the peasant and the czar. The peasant was walking in the woods when he came upon a man who was performing a simple natural act. The peasant gazed upon the figure, who was a stranger in those parts, and he recognized the little father, the czar of all the Russias. Shocked that so great a being would be reduced to so natural an act, he crossed himself in astonishment and running through the woods, he shouted: "There is no God! There is no czar!" until the neighbors heard the hysterical creature and bound him.

From this hearing, the television view of the McCarthy-Stevens episode is of great value. What is self-evident is that while everybody is telling a part of the truth, each person's memory is extraordinarily selective. Also it is clear that when persons sit under the television camera, unwittingly they become actors who assume a role to modulate their voices and to pose as characters in a play. The same men in their own offices are very different, even kindly and friendly.

Senator Potter is so right when he referred to a competition with Milton Berle, which, of course, these men cannot do because Uncle Miltie knows his business. The advantage to the people is that, for the first time, they actually see these men in action and no matter how wonderful each one thinks he is, the screen shows tired, weary, bored men.

Ours is a government of compromises. When one branch of government exerts too great a power over the other, the balance of authority is upset and a quarrel ensues. The trend toward executive government naturally raises the hackles of Congress; when the Congress or any of its committees invades the authorities of the executive, the pressure is resisted. If political leadership is wise and experienced, the balance of power is maintained, each branch of government remaining within its proper margin. That balance does not exist at the present time, and therefore there is confusion. For instance, Messrs. Stevens and Adams objected to the extent of interference in their domain of Senator McCarthy and his staff. The reported intervention of Sherman Adams, the presidential chief-of-staff, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., our representative at the United Nations, and William R. Rodgers, deputy attorney general, is surprising.

It is unusual for such officials to engage in this type of operation and to my certain knowledge their intervention was unknown to Senator McCarthy prior to Mr. Adams' testimony before the committee last Wednesday. If it is true that the President refused to intervene in this situation one way or another, he was more correct in his conduct than his appointees because under our system, each house of Congress should manage its own affairs and is not subject to any control by the executive branch of government. On the other hand, Congress has the right to investigate any agency of government. If for no other reason than that it must have adequate data as to the needs and conduct of the agency in order to appropriate funds.

The present hearing discloses to the public this interrelationship among the branches of government, each jealous of its own domain. It also displays the activities of the staffs of each branch to find or to fail to find an adequate basis for cooperative activity. If all the executive matter, the lunches, dinners, telephone calls, ice cream and the eternal walla-wallas, are cut away, the Army civilians and the staff of the McCarthy Committee functioned about as well as could be in the circumstances of one being investigated and the other an investigator up to February 24. On that date, a special issue of authority arose and they quarreled. Had no demand for the Loyalty Board's presence before the committee been made in order to determine who passed favorably on Communists, the likelihood is that the kind of cooperation that existed prior to that date would have been continued, with occasional flare-ups of temper and considerable good humor. But then there would have been no television show.

McCarthy Suffering From Senate Committee Hearing

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's own behavior is the best proof that he greatly fears the outcome of the McCarthy-Army hearings.

The reason is obvious. McCarthy is afraid of the monitored telephone conversations that show exactly how he and his staff beat the U. S. Army over the head to get special favors for Pvt. Schine. And sooner or later, these conversations are likely to be put in evidence.

So far there has been nothing vivid, nothing sharp and pungent, to give the whole country an unforgettable picture of McCarthy and company in action. The obscenity, the gross impropriety, the naked threats, the shameless arrogance, have all been testified to by Secretary of the Army Stevens and others. But the full nastiness of the whole business has not yet come to light.

Just that will quickly happen, however, when and if the monitored conversations are introduced. Nothing is so telling, nothing is so bleakly convincing as a page-full of human talk, set down as the words came from the mouths of the speakers without comment or elaboration. If advance reports do not mislead, the introduction of these conversations should dispel the last, lingering doubt about the need for the dirty-linen-washing that is now going on.

The senators of the investigating committee, the Army strategists, and those who have observed the hearings from the start, all agree that these monitored telephone conversations are the real clue to the mystery of Sen. McCarthy's tactics to date.

Three Classes of Documents

To understand the position, the different classes of documents must be understood. First, there are the documents prepared by the Army—the original report on the Schine matter to Sen. Potter, and the final statement of charges filed with the investigating committee. Both these are public property. Second, there are the memoranda of McCarthy and his staff's dealings with the Army. These were prepared by Army counsel

John Adams, as he has now testified, by direction of the President's chief of staff, Sherman Adams. These memoranda have not been published as yet. They paint a far uglier picture than the Army's public documents. But they do not give the story. Very many of them, and many of the John Adams' unsupported recollections.

The existence of the two first sets of documents were well known to McCarthy and his staff before the hearings began. Even the Adams memoranda probably caused no great qualms. After all, if these memoranda were introduced in the record, the issue would be no more than the memory of Adams against the memory of McCarthy and Roy Cohn.

Then, at the very beginning of the hearing, Army lawyer Joseph Welch suddenly revealed the existence of the third class of documents.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We're celebrating the 60th anniversary of that overworked shibboleth, "Trial by Newspapers."

The accusation is we hypothesize the decision of the courts and slant opinions like a brewery ramp.

It probably goes back to the cuneiform upstate editions when a wedge-shaped editor on a roof tile was worth its weight in a stone fight.

Its modern interpretation was rehearsed by Lord Alfred Douglas in 1895. He complained his literary friend Wilde was being tried by the London daily journals.

They did a thorough job for Wilde drew a deuce in clink. He could cancel his subscription. But he couldn't egg the calendar.

The solo echo of the morose

ments, the monitored telephone conversations. This sudden revelation that the Army possessed indisputable proof of its case in turn drove McCarthy to desperate tactics.

The Senator immediately objected to the admission of the conversations as evidence. He said that if any were admitted, all must be admitted. Above all, he began the filibuster that kept Secretary of the Army Stevens on the stand for 14 long days of endless, repetitive, brain-washing questioning.

Both the members of the investigating committee and all other qualified observers now feel quite certain about the motive for this filibuster. It was designed to keep the monitored conversations out of the record.

Obviously, the filibuster did McCarthy and Cohn great harm in

'Malenkov' Golfs At Burning Tree Club After Secret Service Men Stop Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When you drive by the Burning Tree Country Club you can always tell whether the President is golfing. For on golfing days a couple of Secret Service men stand at the gate and check off the names of members as they enter.

One day, Merle Thorpe, of Citi Service, and a founder of the Burning Tree club, drove up to the club entrance and was stopped. Politely the Secret Service men wanted to know his name. "Malenkov," replied Mr. Thorpe, slightly nettled that he had to identify himself to get into the club which he had founded.

Carefully one Secret Service man looked down the list of members. "I don't see the name 'Malenkov' here," he said.

"Well, I'm a new member," replied Thorpe and drove on into the club.

McCarthy Won't Appropriate

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, the Appropriations chairman, has been trying for weeks to get Senator McCarthy to attend to his appropriations work—without success.

McCarthy is in charge of appropriations for the Treasury Department and Post Office, but last year didn't do a lick of work. He simply approved everything the House Appropriations Committee did. This was the first time in the entire history of the United States that the Senate didn't bother to change a line in the House Appropriations Bill for the Treasury and Post Office.

This year Bridges, who likes McCarthy, insisted that he do a little work. However, McCarthy kept putting it off until he got embroiled with the Army.

Last week Bridges kept badgering McCarthy over the phone and in the cloakroom five or six times to call an Appropriations hearing. Finally the New Hampshire senator even rounded up all the other members of McCarthy's subcommittee and got them to agree to meet Saturday after the Senate-McCarthy hearings had recessed for the weekend, in order to consider appropriations.

But McCarthy refused to attend. Instead, he left town to make a speech.

So Bridges decided to do McCarthy's work for him and presided over the hearing himself.

Young Bob Taft

Young Bob Taft, son of the late senator from Ohio, is almost certain to be elected to the Ohio legislature this November, but he will get off to a shaky start in Ohio politics.

He has already incurred the ire of the Republican organization which so consistently supported his father.

What Young Bob did was desert Congressman George Bender, one of his father's staunchest year-in-and-year-out supporters, and back Bender's GOP rival, Speaker William Saxbe of the Ohio House of Representatives, instead.

Young Taft said that Bender, who had the state organization's endorsement, was not a suitable person to be elected to the Senate. He charged that Bender had attempted to obtain endorsement "from the grave of my father" by distributing pictures of himself taken with the elder Taft during the 1952 campaign.

Despite young Bob's bitterly worded slap at Congressman Bender, the Hamilton County Organization at Cincinnati—Young Bob's own district—came through with a 2 to 1 margin for Bender.

Bob's rebellion against the machine politicians of Cincinnati recalls the sad fate of his uncle, Charles P. Taft, who also dared to defy local GOP leaders by serving as a non-partisan member of the city council and helping elect a Democrat mayor of Cincinnati.

After this, Charles Taft insisted on running for governor in 1952 against the wishes of party leaders, and they coldly turned their backs on him. Whereas Eisenhower carried Ohio by 496,000 votes, Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche swamped Charles Taft by an all-time record of 572,000 votes.

(The French claim that Dulles' diplomacy is a contributing factor.)

When Cohn, Schine and Carr finish a day before the TV cameras they frequently meet for dinner at Washington's swank Colony Restaurant. Whisked to a large, reserved, corner table, the management, as a "security" measure, refuses to permit anyone to occupy the adjacent table. Whispered conversations follow. If a waiter approaches they stop. Schine demands that a table telephone be plugged in for his use during dinner. It's a white, plastic phone, and he loves to phone direct from his restaurant table. During the course of a dinner, he will put through half a dozen calls, stand up, glance around, phone in hand. Main course is a huge steak, well done, partitioned into three pieces. They call this "going threesome" on the steak. After dinner, Schine usually drops into the Mayflower to pick up the latest newspapers. One night he bought three magazines: The World, with the teaser written across the bottom: "How McCarthyism Helps the Kremlin"; also Confidential. Apparently embarrassed over being seen with a copy of Confidential, he slipped it between the pages of the more respectable U. S. News and World report.

Business Is Looking Up

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Last

December in this column I predicted we would not have a sharp drop in business during 1954. So far this has not taken place, although there has been a temporary period of unemployment. The question is: What will be the pattern of business from here on? This I will discuss in a few weeks when I make my extended forecast for the last six months.

How Bad Are Conditions?

Because some of my critics were overly pessimistic for the first quarter and business conditions failed to bolster their attitude, they have now become pessimistic about the second half. I think they are still wrong! Sure, retail sales have dropped some in a number of lines since the first of the year. Automobile sales for steel companies have been poor. Steel production has slowed to about 70 per cent of capacity, but is still almost 30 per cent better than that of 1940 or 1946. The squeeze has been on, too, for the marginal farmer, with the trend to larger farms, greater mechanization, and fewer farm hands. Last year's five per cent drop in farm income caught the farm machinery manufacturers off balance. I anticipate this condition will continue well into 1954.

The leveling-off in business activity which figures such as these represent will be reflected in the business of the railroads. During this second quarter our railroads are anticipating about a 27 per cent decline in automotive shipments, a 17 per cent decline in steel loadings, and an approximate 8 per cent decline in coal and coke loadings. On the other hand, some increase is expected in transporting such things as fruits, frozen foods, cotton, and cement. So, I forecast that total carloadings this quarter will reflect a drop of only about eight per cent over the second quarter of last year.

Reasons For Optimism

There are, in fact, some substantial reasons for optimism. For nearly a year now we have been working down the unsold goods on our shelves and in our warehouses. People are still in a good position to buy; they have the money. Did you know that personal income rose to about $285 billions by the end of 1953, compared with around $280 billions at the end of 1952? During this same period, salaries increased more than two per cent so that our living standards and savings reached the highest point in history.

Further, our banks have both cash and government securities in an amount equal to about 60 per cent of deposits, and the easy-money policy which encourages business is back with us. The construction industry keeps booming. For example, the Commerce Department reports that new construction expenditures for first-quarter 1954 were the highest in our entire national history. A number of manufacturers polled indicate that March 1954 was either the second or third best in the history of their companies.

The Unemployment Question

There has been too much loose talk about unemployment. I am especially concerned by the way in which unemployment data have been presented by many magazines and newspapers. This could have an adverse psychological effect upon business which is not warranted. Granted, across the country there have been more instances of local labor surpluses. No one likes to see anybody out of work. But the picture is not nearly so alarming as some analysts would have us believe.

I believe the best way of presenting unemployment figures is on a per capita or percentage basis. To illustrate: In 1928 the population was 120,501,000. The unemployed totaled 2,935,000. Therefore, the per cent of unemployment per capita was only 2.4. In 1938 the population had increased to 129,825,000 and unemployment to 10,390,000. The per capita unemployment, therefore, was then eight per cent. Now take 1954. Our present population numbers roughly 160,000,000. Even with a high estimate of 4,000,000 unemployed, the per capita percentage figure would equal only 2.5, or about the same as in the boom year of 1928! Be careful how you let the prophets of doom lead you astray. Business conditions are good, and with your help they are going to be even better in the months to come.

It is a common complaint of childhood that some parents and teachers have forgotten what children are like. So several Pittsburgh psychiatrists had the inspiration to awaken such submerged memories in the parents who needed them most. Groups of these parents, acting out childhood roles, enacted scenes of eating, sleeping, drinking, playing, rivalry with brothers and sisters, etc., under the supervision of a therapist. They tried to have the feelings a child would have.

Later they got together and talked things over. When those of their children who are not tragically incurable return home, they may find an atmosphere of insight in which their restoration to emotional health may be completed.

All parents might gain in understanding and appreciation of their children by an occasional return to childhood—not via a dreary, liquored-up fancy-dress party, but in a simple reaching back to ways most adults seem to think they have to prove they have outgrown. Such an experiment might cure adults of hallucinations, too.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Learning About Government

Few Americans actually know how their government operates, what makes the wheels go round, the deals, the makeshifts, the doublecrosses, the play on small matters. Most Americans cannot believe that the great of the world are ever like themselves.

It is like a Russian story about the peasant and the czar. The peasant was walking in the woods when he came upon a man who was performing a simple natural act. The peasant gazed upon the figure, who was a stranger in those parts, and he recognized the little father, the czar of all the Russias. Shocked that so great a being would be reduced to so natural an act, he crossed himself in astonishment and running through the woods, he shouted: "There is no God! There is no czar!" until the neighbors seized the hysterical creature and bound him.

From this standpoint, the television view of the McCarthy-Stevens hearing is of great value. What is self-evident is that while everybody is telling a part of the truth, each person's memory is extraordinarily selective. Also it is clear that when persons sit under the television camera, unwittingly they become actors who attitudinize and try to modulate their voices and to pose as characters in a play. The same men in their own offices are very different, even kindly and friendly.

Senator Potter is so right when he referred to a competition with Milton Berle, which, of course, these men cannot do because Uncle Miltie knows his business. The advantage to the people is that, for the first time, they actually see these men in action and no matter how wonderful each one thinks he is, the screen shows tired, weary, bored men.

Ours is a government of compromises. When one branch of government exerts too great a power over the other, the balance of authority is upset and a quarrel ensues. The trend toward executive government naturally raises the hackles of Congress; when the Congress or any of its committees invades the authorities of the executive, the pressure is resisted. If political leadership is wise and experienced, the balance of power is maintained, each branch of government remaining within its proper margins. That balance does not exist at the present time, and therefore there is confusion. For instance, Messrs. Stevens and Adams objected to the extent of interference in their domain of Senator McCarthy and his staff. The reported intervention of Sherman Adams, the presidential chief-of-staff, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., our representative at the United Nations, and William Rodgers, deputy attorney general, is surprising.

It is unusual for such officials to engage in this type of operation and to my certain knowledge their intervention was unknown to Senator McCarthy prior to Mr. Adams' testimony before the committee last Wednesday. If it is true that the President refused to intervene in this situation one way or another, he was more correct in his conduct than his appointees because under our system, each house of Congress should manage its own affairs and is not subject to any control by the executive branch of government. On the other hand, Congress has the right to investigate any agency of government, if for no other reason than that it must have adequate data as to the needs and conduct of the agency in order to appropriate funds.

The present hearing discloses to the public this interrelationship among the branches of government, each jealous of its own domain. It also displays the activities of the staffs of each branch to find or to fail to find an adequate basis for cooperative activity. If all the extraneous matter, the lunches, dinners, telephone calls, ice cream and the eternal walla-walla, is cut away, the Army civilians and the staff of the McCarthy Committee functioned about as well as could be in the circumstances of one being investigated and the other an investigator up to February 24. On that date, a special issue of authority arose and they quarrelled. Had no demand for the Loyalty Board's presence before the committee been made in order to determine who passed favorably on Communists, the likelihood is that the kind of cooperation that existed prior to that date would have been continued, with occasional flare-ups of temper and considerable good humor. But then there would have been no television show.

Road To Mandalay

McCarthy Suffering From Senate Committee Hearing

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's own behavior is the best proof that he greatly fears the outcome of the McCarthy-Army hearings.

The reason is obvious. McCarthy is afraid of the monitored telephone conversations that show exactly how he and his staff beat the U. S. Army over the head to get special favors for Pvt. Schine. And sooner or later, these conversations are likely to be put in evidence.

So far there has been nothing vivid, nothing sharp and pungent, to give the whole country an unforgettable picture of McCarthy and company in action. The obscenity, the gross impropriety, the naked threats, the shameless arrogance, have all been testified to by Secretary of the Army Stevens and others. But the full nastiness of the whole business has not yet come to light.

Just that will quickly happen, however, when and if the monitored conversations are introduced. Nothing is so telling, nothing is so bleakly convincing as a page-full of human talk, set down as the words came from the mouths of the speakers without comment or elaboration. If advance reports do not mislead, the introduction of these conversations should dispel the last, lingering doubt about the need for the dirty-linen-washing that is now going on.

The senators of the investigating committee, the Army strategists, and those who have observed the hearings from the start, all agree that these monitored telephone conversations are the real clew to the mystery of Sen. McCarthy's tactics to date.

Three Classes of Documents

To understand the position, the different classes of documents must be understood. First, there are the documents prepared by the Army—the original report on the Schine matter to Sen. Potter, and the final statement of charges filed with the investigating committee. Both these are public property.

Second, there are the memoranda of McCarthy's and his staff's dealings with the Army. These were prepared by Army counselor

John Adams, as he has now testified, by direction of the President's chief of staff, Sherman Adams. These memoranda have not been published as yet. They paint a far uglier picture than the Army's public documents. But they do not give the story verbatim; and many of them depend on John Adams' unsupported recollections.

The existence of the two first sets of documents were well known to McCarthy and his staff before the hearings began. Even the Adams memoranda probably caused no great qualms. After all, if these memoranda were introduced in the record, the issue would be no more than the memory of Adams against the memory of McCarthy and Roy Cohn.

Then, at the very beginning of the hearing, Army lawyer Joseph Welch suddenly revealed the existence of the third class of documents.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We're celebrating the 60th anniversary of that overworked shibboleth, "Trial by Newspapers."

The accusation is we hypocritize the decision of the courts and slant opinions like a brewery ramp.

It probably goes back to the cuneiform update editions when a wedge-shaped editorial on a roof tile was worth its weight in a stone fight.

Its modern interpretation was rehashing by Lord Alfred Douglas in 1895. He complained his literary friend Wilde was being tried by the London daily journals.

They did a thorough job for Wilde drew a deuce in clink. He could cancel his subscription. But he couldn't egg the calendar.

The solo echo of the morose

country. The brain-washing tactics, the interminable repetitions, caused mounting public exasperation. But the exasperation with McCarthy and Cohn was accompanied by mounting public exasperation with the hearings themselves. This exasperation in turn laid the groundwork for Sen. Dirksen's compromise or cover-up.

Get the people angry with the hearings, was the idea, and then they will consent to the hearings being stopped. The idea almost worked.

The rejection of the Dirksen cover-up (which was a presidential decision) plainly caught McCarthy between wind and water. Once he treated the whole executive branch like the dirt under his feet. But now he anxiously waited for two whole hours in his office, to hear whether the Army would or would not accept the cover-up plan. And in the hearing room, when the Army's rejection was final, McCarthy all but lost control of himself.

At that moment, however, the McCarthy filibuster came to an end. It had done McCarthy and his cause great harm. It had failed of its purpose. It was stopped there and then.

The monitored conversations are still not in the record. No doubt McCarthy and Cohn will exploit every device at their command to keep these bombs from exploding. No doubt they will be helped by their allies such as Sen. Dirksen. Perhaps the Army strategists have divided feelings about these conversations, since the Army cause may also be damaged if all the conversations have to be introduced, with no omissions.

In short, the real test of the honesty of the present investigation is what finally happens to these conversations. Pending that test, however, one point is simply clear. With all their drawbacks, these hearings have already changed the national opinion of Sen. McCarthy, just by giving the nation a close look at the man.

'Malenkov' Golfs At Burning Tree Club After Secret Service Men Stop Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When you drive by the Burning Tree Country Club you can always tell whether the President is golfing. For on golfing days a couple of Secret Service men stand at the gate and check off the names of members as they enter.

One day, Merle Thorpe, of Cities Service, and a founder of the Burning Tree club, drove up to the club entrance and was stopped. Politely the Secret Service men wanted to know his name.

"Malenkov," replied Mr. Thorpe, slightly nettled that he had to identify himself to get into the club which he had founded.

Carefully one Secret Service man looked down the list of members.

"I don't see the name 'Malenkov' here," he said.

"Well, I'm a new member," replied Thorpe and drove on into the club.

McCarthy Won't Appropriate

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, the Appropriations chairman, has been trying for weeks to get Senator McCarthy to attend to his appropriations work—without success.

McCarthy is in charge of appropriations for the Treasury Department and Post Office, but last year didn't do a lick of work. He simply approved everything the House Appropriations Committee did. This was the first time in the entire history of the United States that the Senate didn't bother to change a line in the House Appropriations Bill for the Treasury and Post Office.

This year Bridges, who likes McCarthy, insisted that he do a little work. However, McCarthy kept putting it off until he got embroiled with the Army.

Last week Bridges kept badgering McCarthy over the phone and in the cloakroom five or six times to call an appropriations hearing. Finally the New Hampshire senator even rounded up all the other members of McCarthy's subcommittee and got them to agree to meet Saturday after the Army-McCarthy hearings had recessed for the weekend, in order to consider appropriations.

But McCarthy refused to attend. Instead, he left town to make a speech.

So Bridges decided to do McCarthy's work for him and presided over the hearing himself.

Young Bob Taft

Young Bob Taft, son of the late senator from Ohio, is almost certain to be elected to the Ohio legislature this November, but he will get off to a shaky start in Ohio politics. He has already incurred the ire of the Republican organization which so consistently supported his father.

What young Bob did was desert Congressman George Bender, one of his father's staunchest year-in-and-year-out supporters, and back Bender's GOP rival, Speaker William Saxbe of the Ohio House of Representatives, instead.

Young Taft said that Bender, who had the state organization's endorsement, was not a suitable person to be elected to the Senate. He charged that Bender had attempted to obtain endorsement "from the grave of my father" by distributing pictures of himself taken with the elder Taft during the 1952 campaign.

Despite young Bob's bitterly worded slap at Congressman Bender, the Hamilton County organization at Cincinnati — young Bob's own district — came through with a 2 to 1 margin for Bender.

Bob's rebellion against the machine politicians of Cincinnati recalls the sad fate of his uncle, Charles P. Taft, who also dared to defy local GOP leaders by serving as a non-partisan member of the city council and helping elect a Democrat mayor of Cincinnati.

After this, Charles Taft insisted on running for governor in 1952 against the wishes of party leaders, and they coldly turned their backs on him. Whereas Eisenhower carried Ohio by 496,000 votes, Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche swamped Charley Taft by an all-time record of 572,000 votes.

American Feud in Turkey—The two top American generals in Turkey are carrying on a personal feud that is the talk of Turkey. They are Lt. Gen. Paul Kendall, commander of NATO, and Maj. Gen. Whitfield Shepard, chief of the American Military Mission. Relations are so strained that Gen. Shepard refused to send a representative to the formal dedication of Gen. Kendall's new headquarters.

McCarthy Spies On CIA Spies — Director Allen Dulles has Ike's okay of full support if Senator McCarthy goes after his Central Intelligence Agency. Dulles has learned that McCarthy is quizzing disgruntled ex-employees to gather material for an investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of CIA. But Allen Dulles, brother of the Secretary of State, has done a remarkable job, and is ready to stand up and fight. With the President's backing he will refuse to open up top-secret files to McCarthy and his gumshoes.

U. S. Walkout—Secretary Dulles has cabled the U. S. delegation at Geneva to walk out rather than agree to any sweeping concessions to the Communists. Dulles fears the panicky French will agree to a disastrous cease-fire which will turn over most, if not all, Indochina to the Reds. Since he can't block such a deal, Dulles believes the only thing to do is walk out of the conference and make it clear that the United States is not responsible for the defeat. (The French claim that Dulles' diplomacy is a contributing factor.)

When Cohn, Schine and Carr finish a day before the TV cameras they frequently meet for dinner at Washington's swank Colony Restaurant... Whisked to a large, reserved, corner table, the management, as a "security" measure, refuses to permit anyone to occupy the adjacent table... Whispered conversations follow. If a waiter approaches they stop. Schine demands that a table telephone be plugged in for his use during dinner... It's a white, plastic phone, and he loves to phone direct from his restaurant table... During the course of a dinner, he will put through half a dozen calls, stand up, glance around, phone in hand... Main course is a huge steak, well done, partitioned into three pieces... They call this "going threesies" on the steak. After dinner, Schine usually drops into the Mayflower to pick up the latest newspapers. One night he bought three magazines; The World, with the teaser written across the bottom: "How McCarthyism Helps the Kremlin"; also Confidential. Apparently embarrassed over being seen with a copy of Confidential, he slipped it between the pages of the more respectable U. S. News and World report.

Business Is Looking Up

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Last December in this column I predicted we would not have a sharp drop in business during 1954. So far this has not taken place, although there has been a temporary period of unemployment. The question is: What will be the pattern of business from here on? This I will discuss in a few weeks when I make my extended forecast for the last six months.

How Bad Are Conditions?

Because some of my critics were overly pessimistic for the first quarter and business conditions failed to bolster their attitude, they have now become pessimistic about the second half. I think they are still wrong! Sure, retail sales have dropped some in a number of lines since the first of the year. Automobile sales for most companies have been poor. Steel production has slowed to about 70 per cent of capacity, but is still almost 30 per cent better than that of 1940 or 1946. The squeeze has been on, too, for the marginal farmer, with the trend to larger farms, greater mechanization, and fewer farm hands. Last year's five per cent drop in farm income caught the farm machinery manufacturers off balance. I anticipate this condition will continue well into 1954.

The leveling-off in business activity which figures such as these represent will be reflected in the business of the railroads. During this second quarter our railroads are anticipating about a 27 per cent decline in automotive shipments, a 17 per cent decline in steel loadings, and an approximate 8 per cent decline in coal and coke loadings. On the other hand, some increase is expected in transporting such things as fruits, frozen foods, cotton, and cement. So, I forecast that total carloadings this quarter will reflect a drop of only about eight per cent over the second quarter of last year.

Reasons For Optimism

There are, in fact, some substantial reasons for optimism. For nearly a year now we have been working down the unsold goods on our shelves and in our warehouses. People are still in a good position to buy; they have the money. Did you know that personal income rose to about $285 billions by the end of 1953, compared with around $280 billions at the end of 1952? During this same period, salaries increased more than two per cent so that our living standards and savings reached the highest point in history.

Further, our banks have both cash and government securities in an amount equal to about 60 per cent of deposits, and the easy-money policy which encourages business is back with us. The construction industry keeps booming. For example, the Commerce Department reports that new construction expenditures for first quarter 1954 were the highest in our entire national history. A number of manufacturers polled indicate that March 1954 was either the second or third best in the history of their companies.

The Unemployment Question

There has been too much loose talk about unemployment. I am especially concerned by the way in which unemployment data have been presented by many magazines and newspapers. This could have an adverse psychological effect upon business which is not warranted. Granted, across the country there have been more instances of local labor surpluses. No one likes to see anybody out of work. But the picture is not nearly so alarming as some analysts would have us believe.

I believe the best way of presenting unemployment figures is on a per capita or percentage basis. To illustrate: In 1928 the population was 129,501,000. The unemployed totaled 2,935,000. Therefore, the per cent of unemployment per capita was only 2.4. In 1938 the population had increased to 129,825,000 and unemployment to 10,390,000. The per capita unemployment, therefore, was then eight per cent. Now take 1954. Our present population numbers roughly 160,000,000. Even with a high estimate of 4,000,000 unemployed, the per capita percentage figure would equal only 2.5, or about the same as in the boom year of 1928! Be careful how you let the prophets of doom lead you astray. Business conditions are good, and with your help they are going to be even better in the months to come.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

The House, too, following Senate action, has passed the St. Lawrence Seaway Bill. So now that long-drawn-out argument over the big ditch can be considered just so much water over the dam.

A noted English physician says we western folk should give up handshaking and adopt the eastern custom of bowing. More dignified, says he. And it might help reduce that waistline, too.

A University of California at Los Angeles psychiatrist says the number of superstitions people believe in total 80,000. That figure's not so bad—supposing it was thirteen thousand!

Try And Stop Me

Immortal poetry found on a food-splattered menu in an Omaha hash-house:

Cautiously I rap her head
And seize her neck to throttle
Both my hands are soaked

Dawgone that catsup bottle!

A thrifty storekeeper up in New Hampshire has raised the paper-towel dispensers in his washroom an additional two feet above their former niche. Now when a customer wants to dry his hands he has to reach so high that water runs down his sleeves. He probably cusses a bit—but he uses only one of the towels instead of three.

A neighbor stuck her head into an Easthampton bungalow and asked solicitously, "How's your Morty feeling this morning?" "He can't complain," said his wife. "Land's sake," clucked the neighbor, "I had no idea he was that sick!"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 16 (INS) — I am very happy over the new contract which John Agar has won for himself at Universal-International all because of the way he conducted himself while making "Shield of Murder" at this studio.

John went through a very bad period when he was unhappy, drinking too much and unable to get work. His mother stuck by him — and so did his present wife with whom he is very happy.

Now John is signed on a seven-year contract and he'll have a featured role in "Smoke Signal" starring Dana Andrews. It's the intention of Producer Ed Muhl to give him a big build-up. John has a good singing voice and he photographs extremely well.

His marriage to Shirley Temple went on the rocks partly, I believe, because her career was so much more important than his. John may yet have his day in the sun of stardom.

Annelie and Mark Stevens, who have been in New York for almost two years, head for Hollywood after Mark finishes his "Martin Kane, Private Eye" TV series, June 17.

Mark has been signed by Lindsley Parsons of Allied Artists to star in "Ketchikan," a drama of Alaska. The picture won't keep Mark in Hollywood long, because it will be filmed in Alaska. The story, by Warren Campbell, is about a criminal who flees the USA and tries to rebuild his life in Alaska.

The hottest girl in this town, without exception, is Grace Kelly, whose face adorns the cover of the current issue of Newsweek, and who had a photographic layout in Life magazine a few weeks ago.

Grace could very well be twins and still keep working all the time. She'll finish "Green Fire" May 19 and take off for France before the 22nd to play opposite Cary Grant in Alfred Hitchcock's melodrama "To Catch a Thief."

Every big magazine has come-up stories on Grace, whose leading men fall for her like crazy. Even Bing Crosby takes her dancing; Clark Gable liked her, so did Ray Milland.

There's nobody kinder in this town than Mrs. Gregory Peck, who is very sweet not only with her children but with her friends. Olive (Mrs. Harry) Carey collapsed at Greta's house a few weeks ago, after she finished her first job in many years at MGM. Olive came down with double pneumonia and was so sick that she couldn't be moved. So, Greta Peck put her to bed and nursed her through the danger period.

By the way, Greta is having her hair cut very short, getting ready to look her prettiest when Greg gets here.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:
Poor Chuck Saxon, popular editor of Modern Screen magazine, is down with the mumps.

The girl at the night spots with Brad Dexter, who looks so much like his ex, Peggy Lee, is a model named Penny Sweeney.

Eddie Fisher arrives this morning to do the final Colgate comedy hour with Eddie Cantor. While here Eddie will talk with Paramount executives about a movie.

Ava Gardner's hospital room in Madrid has been filled with flowers sent by bullfighter Luis Miguel Dominguez.

Many of June Havoc's pals flew up for her opening at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas, and many more are going up to see her during the engagement.

Saw Abe Schiller, of the Las Vegas Flamingo, both at the Hollywood Brown Derby where he was having lunch, and later at the Mocambo. He was looking at Mary McCarty — so don't be surprised if she lands in the Flamingo.

A letter from Martin Starr, of the Hollywood bureau of the Quigley publications, reminds me that on the air he stood by me on my exclusive Rossellini-Bergman story — one of the few who believed it was true.

Sympathy goes to Mel Dinelli, author of "Suspense," who was summoned to Albuquerque by the death of his father.

Jeff Morrow had a letter from an Italian producer asking him to co-star with Anna Maria Ferrero, Vittorio Gassman's girl friend. Jeff is afraid Shelley Winters wouldn't like it.

That's all today. See you Monday.

You can "travel light" if your wardrobe is planned from a practical point of view.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

I was positive, when writing last week's column on the budget aspects of your travels, that many of you would have questions on the down-to-earth practicalities of "traveling light." So I've directed a number of queries on that subject to the Powers Girls, and to my fashion consultants.

Here is a checklist of their suggestions for a wardrobe that adds up to adaptability, regardless of your destination and your plans upon arrival.

Select your travel costume first.

This sets the color key for your wardrobe, makes it easier to choose many-mooded accessories that will coordinate with all your basics. You'll probably look and feel smartest in a dark suit of closely-woven fabric that resists both soil and creases.

Your Wraps

Pick an all-purpose coat. Some toppers are equally suitable with dress clothes and with casuals. Easy lines make for comfortable traveling, and a smart 'round the clock appearance.

Supplement this wrap with packables. One might be a plastic raincoat, another a stole in silk, wool or fur that's appropriate for dozens of different occasions and attractive over almost everything. A cardigan is indispensable.

Don't stint on shoes. You'll need low or medium-heeled walking shoes for sightseeing or snoring, a pair of pumps for afternoon dress-up occasions, sandals for your more frivolous evening hours, and flats for sportswear.

Small hats are best. One hat-box can be your maximum, since daytime, cocktail and evening hats are all available in "pack it" versions requiring next to no space.

Expand your wardrobe with separates. Look for space-saving packables like wrinkle-resistant cottons, sheers and jersey for daytime, chiffons and laces for evening.

Fabric Choices

Concentrate on easy-keep fabrics. Nylon is the life-saver for lingerie, blouses, extra dresses, stockings. Knits, silk, Orlon and Dacron are excellent. Sweaters are necessities, both pull-overs to be worn as blouses in coolish weather, and the cardigan I've already mentioned.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 16 (INS) — I am very happy over the new contract which John Agar has won for himself at Universal-International all because of the way he conducted himself while making "Shield of Murder" at this studio.

John went through a very bad period when he was unhappy, drinking too much and unable to get work. His mother stuck by him — and so did his present wife with whom he is very happy.

Now John is signed on a seven-year contract and he'll have a featured role in "Smoke Signal" starring Dana Andrews. It's the intention of Producer Ed Muhl to give him a big build-up. John has a good singing voice and he photographs extremely well.

His marriage to Shirley Temple went on the rocks partly, I believe, because her career was so much more important than his. John may yet have his day in the sun of stardom.

Annette and Mark Stevens, who have been in New York for almost two years, head for Hollywood after Mark finishes his "Martin Kane, Private Eye" TV series, June 17.

Mark has been signed by Lindsey Parsons of Allied Artists to star in "Ketchikan," a drama of Alaska. The picture won't keep Mark in Hollywood long, because it will be filmed in Alaska. The story, by Warren Campbell, is about a criminal who flees the USA and tries to rebuild his life in Alaska.

The hottest girl in this town, without exception, is Grace Kelly, whose face adorns the cover of the current issue of Newsweek, and who had a photographic layout in Life magazine a few weeks ago.

Grace could very well be twins and still keep working all the time. She'll finish "Green Fire" May 19 and take off for France before the 22nd to play opposite Cary Grant in Alfred Hitchcock's melodrama "To Catch a Thief."

Every big magazine has coming-up stories on Grace, whose leading men fall for her like crazy. Even Bing Crosby takes her dancing. Clark Gable liked her, so did Ray Milland.

There's nobody kinder in this town than Mrs. Gregory Peck, who is very sweet not only with her children but with her friends.

Olive (Mrs. Harry) Carey collapsed at Greta's house a few weeks ago, after she finished her first job in many years at MGM. Olive came down with double pneumonia and was so sick that she couldn't be moved. So, Greta Peck put her to bed and nursed her through the danger period.

By the way, Greta is having her hair cut very short, getting ready to look her prettiest when Greg gets here.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:
Poor Chuck Saxon, popular editor of Modern Screen magazine, is down with the mumps.

The girl at the night spots with Brad Dexter, who looks so much like his ex, Peggy Lee, is a model named Penny Sweeney.

Eddie Fisher arrives this morning to do the final Colgate comedy hour with Eddie Cantor. While here Eddie will talk with Paramount executives about a movie.

Ava Gardner's hospital room in Madrid has been filled with flowers sent by bullfighter Luis Miguel Dominguez.

Many of June Haver's pals flew up for her opening at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas, and many more are going up to see her during the engagement.

Saw Abe Schiller, of the Las Vegas Flamingo, both at the Hollywood Brown Derby where he was having lunch, and later at the Mocambo. He was looking at Mary McCarty — so don't be surprised if she lands in the Flamingo.

A letter from Martin Starr, of the Hollywood bureau of the Quigley publications, reminds me that on the air he stood by me on my exclusive Rossellini-Bergman story — one of the few who believed it was true.

Sympathy goes to Mel Dinelli, author of "Suspense," who was summoned to Albuquerque by the death of his father.

Jeff Morrow had a letter from an Italian producer asking him to co-star with Anna Maria Ferrero, Vittorio Gassman's girl friend. Jeff is afraid Shelley Winters wouldn't like it.

That's all today. See you Monday.

You can "travel light" if your wardrobe is planned from a practical point of view.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

I was positive, when writing last week's column on the budget aspects of your travels, that many of you would have questions on the down-to-earth practicalities of "traveling light." So I've directed a number of queries on that subject to the Powers Girls, and to my fashion consultants.

Here is a checklist of their suggestions for a wardrobe that adds up to adaptability, regardless of your destination and your plans upon arrival.

Select your travel costume first.

This sets the color key for your wardrobe, makes it easier to choose many-mooded accessories that will coordinate with all your basics. You'll probably look and feel smartest in a dark suit of closely-woven fabric that resists both soil and creases.

Your Wraps

Pick an all-purpose coat. Some toppers are equally suitable for dress clothes and with casuals. Easy lines make for comfortable traveling, and a smart 'round the clock appearance.

Supplement this wrap with packables. One might be a plastic raincoat, another a stole in silk, wool or fur that's appropriate for dozens of different occasions and attractive over almost everything. A cardigan is indispensable.

Don't stint on shoes. You'll need low or medium-heeled walking shoes for sightseeing or snoring, a pair of pumps for afternoon dress-up occasions, sandals for your more frivolous evening hours, and flats for sportswear.

Small hats are best. One hat-box can be your maximum, since daytime, cocktail and evening hats are all available in "pack it" versions requiring next to no space.

Expand your wardrobe with separates. Look for space-saving packables like wrinkle-resistant cottons, sheers and jersey for daytime, chiffons and laces for evening.

Fabric Choices

Concentrate on easy-keep fabrics. Nylon is the life-saver for lingerie, blouses, extra dresses, stockings. Knits, silk, Orion and Dacron are excellent. Sweaters are necessities, both pull-overs to be worn as blouses in coolish weather, and the cardigan I've already mentioned.

The Germans Take Over

PARIS
This is a very busy tourist season all over Europe but the tourists, temporarily, are not Americans. The Europeans are bustling about visiting one another's capitals and complaining about one another's foods.

The busiest little trippers of all are the Germans, who, for the first time since the war, have enough money and a favorable enough rate of exchange to travel. The Germans are doing us a great favor by rapidly replacing us as the most unpopular race in Europe. Generalities, I realize, are dangerous but I will make so bold as to make the sweeping statement that the Germans are almost totally insensitive to the customs and traditions and feelings of other lands.

French restaurant the other day and they were talking loudly about how they loved Paris. They'd been there during the occupation, they declared, and they just loved the place. Frenchmen for four tables around froze, and, as soon as possible, left. The Germans couldn't understand what they'd done to offend anyone. About personal public relations, the Germans, I'm afraid, are not very smart.

My wife and I were foolish enough to take a train from Genoa to Venice on Easter Monday which is roughly the equivalent here of taking a train home on Labor Day. On Easter weekend—just to give you an idea—2,000,000 Frenchmen leave Paris for someplace else and about a quarter million other Europeans pour into Paris. Then on Easter Monday everyone goes home.

Trains resemble an Eighth Avenue subway during the rush hour. We had first class tickets but a fat lot of good it did us. There weren't any seats and we resigned ourselves to standing up in the corridor to Milan, jammed together like commuters. It wasn't so bad, actually. The Italians are a good natured race, and, even under the most trying circumstances, they laugh and tell jokes and sing songs and—if there's a pretty girl around—make passes. Adversity just stimulates them.

But not the Germans. There were half a dozen Germans within arms reach, all of them loudly complaining that they had first class tickets. Well, so did lots of people but they had enough sense to know there weren't any seats and complaints would do little good. But not the Germans. One German kept elbowing his way through this dense throng, stepping on old ladies and making himself thoroughly unpleasant.

The first time he passed through my wife stuck an Italian heel (which is even sharper than a French heel) in his instep. The second time through, she transfixed him with an elbow. The third time, I took over and planted a lighted cigarette on his posterior. That did it. He didn't try it again.

I don't know what the Germans are looking for in travel, anyhow. They travel with a sort of grim determination staring sullenly at all the monuments, missing nothing that is in the guide books, and not apparently having much fun. Americans are great little hands with a camera but the Germans have us licked there, too. They take pictures of the darndest things, including their dowdy wives. I watched a German take endless pictures of one of the homeliest women I ever laid eyes on, wondering why in God's name he wanted to have a record of that face. Maybe it was his mother.

It was on this trip, too, that my wife and I tested a theory that Italian wines don't travel well. Well, they don't. We tried to take a bottle of Chianti from Genoa to Venice. It never even got to Milan. Spanish wines don't travel either. We tried to take a bottle of vino fino from Seville to Madrid. It expired after 100 kilometres.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Barclay

THWARTING HIS TRUMPS
IT IS NOT necessary to lead a trump through the defender's long holding of tenace honors in order to catch them in a finesse. The coup principle can do the job for you just as well, if you are able to apply it. Maybe the declarer can lead some other suit from the dummy when the defender has nothing left but trumps, so must ruff first. Maybe the other defender can be forced to lead at such a stage. Still fancier, maybe the holder of those menacing trumps may be obliged to lead them.

the Q to be ruffed by the heart 3. With losers possible in two other suits, South scored the spade A, ruffed the 4 with the heart 4, returned through the diamond A and ruffed the spade 7 with the heart 3. The diamond K again put him in position for a spade lead, the Q being ruffed by the heart 9 to clear dummy of trumps.

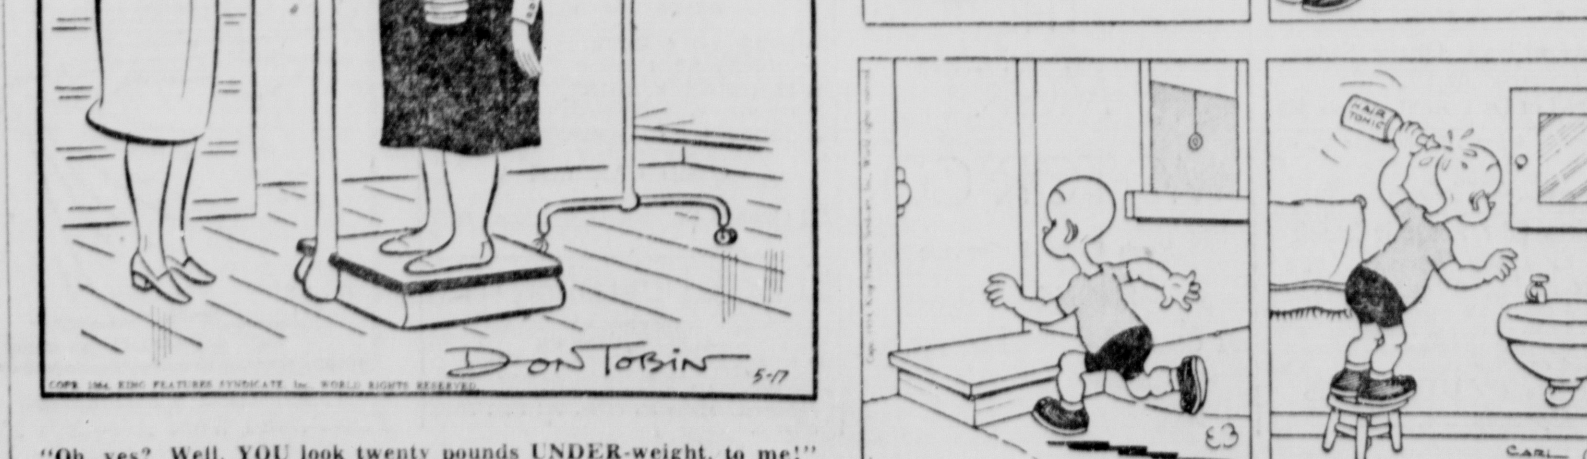

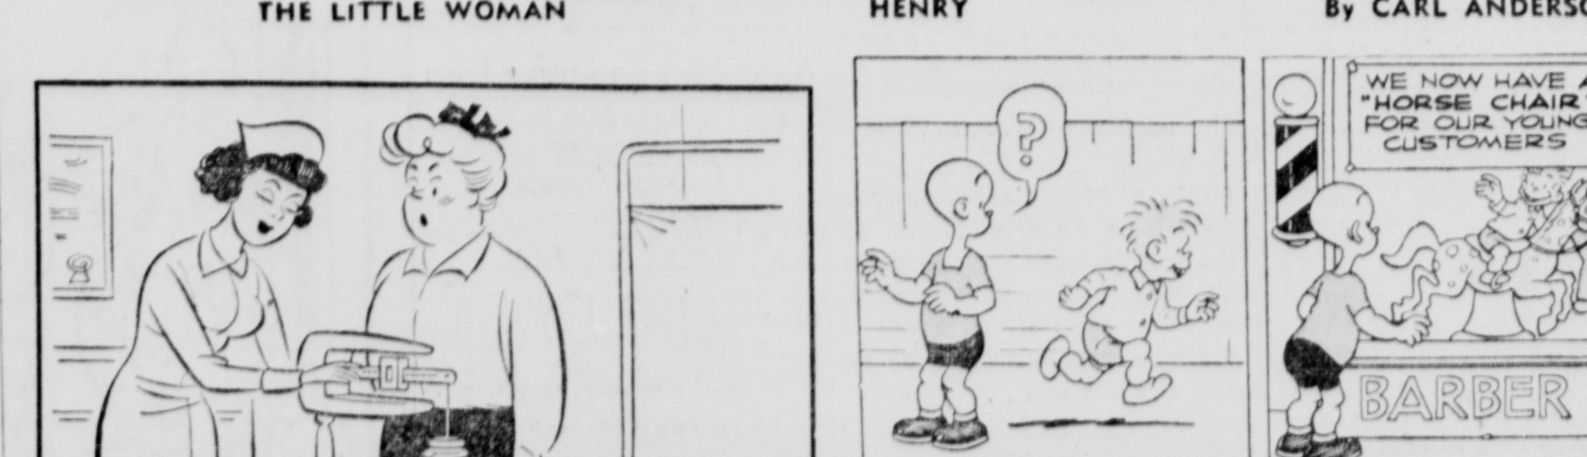

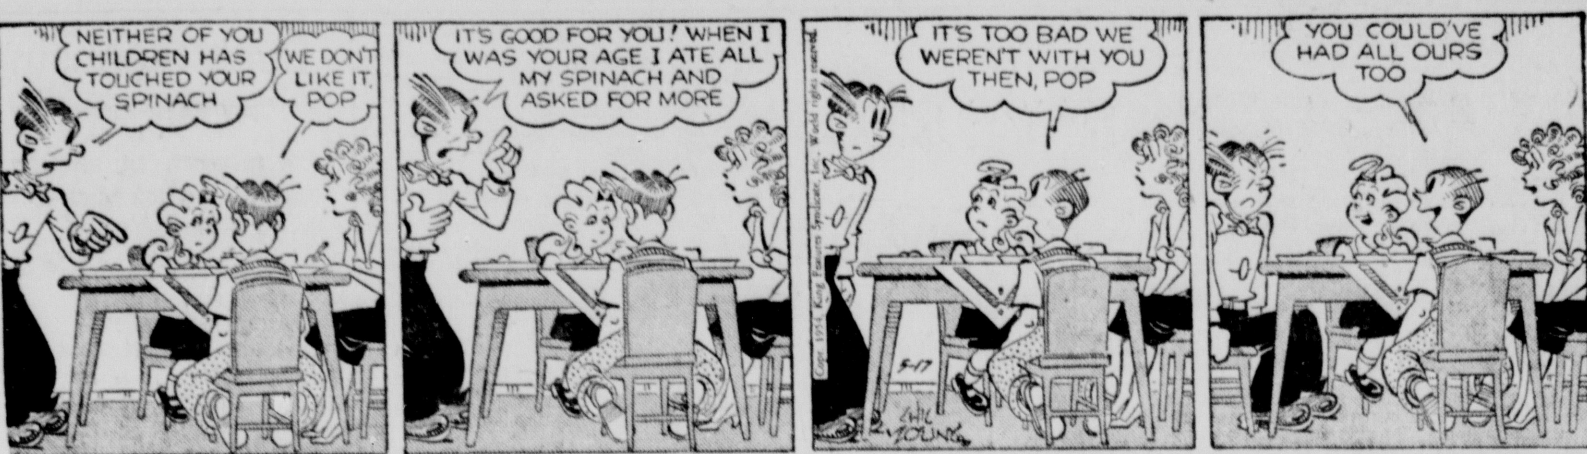

The diamond 8 was given up to the J, whereupon West returned the diamond Q, causing East's heart 5 to be topped by the 6. Having got last crack at East's trumps on that trick, South assured another such opportunity by leading the heart Q to the K. East could score nothing more, as he had only the heart J-7 to lead into the A-10 to give South the concluding tricks. So, with trumps by both players on the last four tricks, East got only one and South three.

What should South do if West's 1-spade is passed by North and East?

There is no question that South made an extremely optimistic bid when he rated his hand worth an original two. Still less excuse existed for East's eventual double, without which South probably would not have made his contract, but which virtually compelled him to be successful.

The Germans Take Over

PARIS

This is a very busy tourist season all over Europe but the tourists, temporarily, are not Americans. The Europeans are bustling about visiting one another's capitals and complaining about one another's foods.

The busiest little trippers of all are the Germans, who, for the first time since the war, have enough money and a favorable enough rate of exchange to travel. The Germans are doing us a great favor by rapidly replacing us as the most unpopular race in Europe. Generalities, I realize, are dangerous but I will make so bold as to make the sweeping statement that the Germans are almost totally insensitive to the customs and traditions and feelings of other lands.

A couple of Germans came in a

French restaurant the other day and were talking loudly about how they loved Paris. They'd been there during the occupation, they declared, and they just loved the place. Frenchmen for four tables around froze, and, as soon as possible, left. The Germans couldn't understand what they'd done to offend anyone. About personal public relations, the Germans, I'm afraid, are not very smart.

My wife and I were foolish enough to take a train from Genoa to Venice on Easter Monday which is roughly the equivalent here of taking a train home on Labor Day.

On Easter weekend—just to give you an idea—2,000,000 Frenchmen leave Paris for someplace else and about a quarter million other Europeans pour into Paris. Then on Easter Monday everyone goes home.

Trains resemble an Eighth Avenue subway during the rush hour. We had first class tickets but a fat lot of good it did us. There weren't any seats and we resigned ourselves to standing up in the corridor to Milan, jammed together like commuters. It wasn't so bad, actually. The Italians are a good natured race, and, even under the most trying circumstances, they laugh and tell jokes and sing songs and—if there's a pretty girl around—make passes. Adversity just stimulates them.

But not the Germans. They were half a dozen Germans within arms reach, all of them loudly complaining that they had first class tickets. Well, so did lots of people but they had enough sense to know there weren't any seats and complaints would do little good. But not the Germans. One German kept elbowing his way through this dense throng, stepping on old ladies and making himself thoroughly unpleasant.

The first time he passed through my wife stuck an Italian heel (which is even sharper than a French heel) in his instep. The second time through, she transfixed him with an elbow. The third time, I took over and planted a lighted cigarette on his posterior. Did that do it? He didn't try it again.

I don't know what the Germans are looking for in travel, anyhow. They travel with a sort of grim determination staring sullenly at all the monuments, missing nothing that is in the guide books, and not apparently having much fun. Americans are great little hands with a camera but the Germans have us licked there, too. They take pictures of the darndest things, including their dowdy wives. I watched a German take endless pictures of one of the homeliest women I ever laid eyes on, wondering why in God's name he wanted to have a record of that face. Maybe it was his mother.

It was on this trip, too, that my wife and I tested a theory that Italian wines don't travel well. Well, they don't. We tried to take a bottle of Chianti from Genoa to Venice. It never even got to Milan. Spanish wines don't travel either. We tried to take a bottle of vino fino from Seville to Madrid. It expired after 100 kilometers.

12,000 See Sports Car Races Here

Dr. Wyllie Wins Cumberland Cup

Over 12,000 persons from the Tri-State area thronged to the Cumberland Municipal Airport yesterday to witness the 1954 Cumberland Sports Car Races.

Jubilant officials of the Lions Club of Cumberland, which sponsored the race, reported plans are underway to make the 1955 sports car race a national event.

Yesterday's races, conducted under perfect weather conditions for both drivers and spectators, were conducted under the technical supervision of the Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America, Inc.

William R. Carscaden, Lions club chairman for the event, said Sports Car Club officials and members expressed pleasure with the event.

Is Accident Free

Top-notch technical supervision, he added, resulted in an accident-free race. The only casualties reported included one person who fainted on a runway—and a man who bit his finger while chomping down on a hamburger.

Later, however, Charles Brooks, 13, Marion Avenue, working at one of the concession stands at the races, had to be admitted to Memorial Hospital after he cut his hand with a knife while chipping ice. Hospital attaches said he had to be hospitalized for tendon repairs.

Carscaden said a number of dangerous conditions developed during the races, but that prompt action of the safety director prevented collisions.

Part of the success of the day was attributed to the perfect weather. It was the nicest Sunday since Easter, with cloudless skies and the thermometer pushing 80.

Crowd Is Orderly

The crowd was kept about 30 yards from the track, which was fenced off at the turns with bales of hay.

A National Guardsman who helped handle the crowd said it was one of the most orderly he had seen. "You ask them to stay back from the track," he said, "and they stay back."

Members of the Army and Marine Corps reserve units also helped. Lions Club members handle the crowds, and West Virginia State Police and Cumberland Police were directing traffic on roads leading to the airport.

Except for a jam which developed in South Cumberland following the races, traffic was being moved along at all times.

122 Cars In Race

Participating in yesterday's races were drivers of 122 sports cars, representing top amateur drivers of the Eastern United States and the fastest sports cars made in Europe and the United States.

The results of the races follow: Race 1, for novice drivers—W. C. Steele, Detroit, Mich.; first; R. C. Zelle, Pittsburgh, second; and J. R. Queen, Cincinnati, third. Steele and Zelle piloted Porsche America cars over the 20-lap, 32-mile course, and Queen, an M.G.

Brooklyn Couple Hurt On Pike

A Brooklyn, N. Y., couple was injured on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about seven miles west of Bedford early yesterday when their car was struck by a tractor-trailer which crossed the median line of the highway after its left front tire blew out, according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Injured were Vincenzo Macri, 40, and his wife, Joan, who were headed east on the turnpike when the accident occurred about 3:40 a. m.

Police said Macri sustained contusions of the chest, possible rib fractures and laceration of the forehead. His wife, who was riding beside her husband, had a laceration of the forehead, fracture of the right ankle and contusions of the right arm. They are patients in Bedford Memorial Hospital.

The Macri automobile was damaged to the extent of about $900, police said. The tractor-trailer, headed west on the turnpike when the blowout sent it across the highway's center strip, sustained about $300 damage. The truck driver, Lee Crone of Pittsburgh, Pa., was uninjured.

The Weather

There was no mistaking the month yesterday as the Queen City was blessed with shirtsleeve weather for the Cumberland Sports Car races. The official high at Constitution Park was a warm 80 and the low was 42. At 8 o'clock the thermometer stood at 71. Humidity at 6 o'clock was 32 per cent. For today the forecast is for partly cloudy and mild with a chance of scattered afternoon showers.

W. Va. Schoolboy Dies In Fall From B&O Train

Tragedy Mars Trip Of Safety Patrol

A schoolboy homeward bound from a holiday in Washington with the School Boy Patrol was found dead along the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad late Saturday night, a mile west of Sir John's Run, W. Va., apparently the victim of a fall from a train.

He was identified as Charles W. Braden, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Braden, Lake View Drive, Parkersburg, W. Va.

According to Capt. Harry D. Schmidt of the B&O police here, the boy was one of a number of Schoolboy Patrolmen aboard a special train en route to Parkersburg from a national gathering of the youngsters in Washington.

The body was first noticed by the train crew of another special carrying more West Virginia-bound youth patrolmen, lying between the main line tracks a mile west of Sir John's Run. The B&O telegraph operator at Hancock was notified, and a railroad motor car was sent out immediately to pick up the body.

Capt. Schmidt's office here was notified, and the train was held at Piedmont. Capt. Schmidt said a check showed the Braden boy was missing from the train.

"Police, train crew members, teachers serving as chaperones, and a B&O patrolman aboard the special were unable to shed any light on the tragedy. No one had been seen wandering around the coaches. No one had been noticed standing in the car vestibules."

The special passed Hancock at 10:10 p. m. (EST) and reached Sir John's Run five minutes later. The second special was 20 minutes behind.

Capt. Schmidt said a thorough check had been made and a careful investigation had been conducted. He said it appeared that the youngster may have become sick and opened a door to get some air or may have just been curious. It appears no one saw the mishap.

The boy had partly disrobed, as had many of the other children so they could get a nap before the train reached Parkersburg at 3 a. m. (EST).

State Police, railroad police and other officials were still investigating yesterday, but held little hope that any further light could be shed upon the accident.

The body of the victim was taken to the Hunter Funeral Home at Berkeley, W. Va., and sent to the Stanley Vaughn mortuary at Parkersburg yesterday.

The funeral home said the boy had suffered a head injury in the tumble from the speeding passenger train.

Braddock Farms Light Meeting Is Planned

Residents of the Braddock Farms area will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Robert McIntyre, Braddock Farms, to discuss plans for a five-year contract for street lighting.

C. O. Twigg, chairman of the Street Lighting committee, said Edward L. Ewald, commercial manager of the Potomac Edison Company, will be present.

Twigg said the first five-year contract for street lights is up, and that plans must be made to secure lights for the next term.

Rotary To Hear Singers

The Carver High School Glee Club, directed by Miss Mary Robb, music teacher in Allegheny County Public Schools, will sing at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

B&O Freight Pileup At Paw Paw

This portion of a 34-car freight wreck at Paw Paw, gives an idea of how badly mangled and piled up the wreckage appeared as crews began the task of clearing the right of way. A loose wheel on the 18th car behind the diesel was blamed for the derailment.

Dr. Skitarelic Is Honored By Sports Car Club

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, one of Cumberland's top sports car enthusiasts, was honored last night at a victory dinner climaxing the 1954 Cumberland Sports Car Races.

He was presented a plaque by the Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America, for his efforts in inaugurating the races here last year.

The sportsmanship trophy was presented to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dietrich Jr., of Sandusky, Ohio.

Winner of the Hard Luck Trophy was C. B. Wilson, of Milford Center, Ohio. The motor of his Allard Palm Beach played out on the 43d lap of the Tri-State Trophy Race.

The Team Trophy was presented to the Washington Region, Sports Car Club of America.

More than 225 sports car drivers and officials, civic leaders and Lions Club officials attended the Victory Dinner held last night at Ali Ghan Country Club.

Food Registration Continues Today

Dohm Is Picked Up On Forgery Warrant

Charles H. Dohm, Lonaconing, was picked up on a forgery warrant Saturday and is being held in County Jail.

The warrant was issued Friday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick after Edwin R. Lilya and the man's father, Jesse D. Dohm, charged he had cashed government bonds valued at $492 belonging to his father.

Today's Sermonette

Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have, give I unto you. Acts 3:6.

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at Emmanuel Episcopal Church by the rector, Rev. H. Maunsel Richardson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

BY REV. H. M. RICHARDSON

Whether or not a miracle happened at the gate called Beaufort, as related in the third chapter of Acts, has often obscured from understanding one of the great ways in which God deals with us... what is given is not always what is asked.

Two disciples on their way to the temple to say their prayers were approached by one of the innumerable beggars of the city. Whether he was genuinely crippled or one of the all too clever fakirs of the beggars' trade, we do not know. We do know that he received something he did not expect... a hand reached down and grasped his begging palm and pulled him upright, and an intense voice said, "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto you. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk."

The disciples had no alms to give, but they gave this beggar a basis for real faith, a faith that met him where he was and for whatever he was, and opened up a life of endless possibilities before him.

Today our faith meets us where we are and opens up the possibilities of life for us. This faith proclaims no Utopia, no easy answer to the world's perplexing problems. Our Christianity does not say that as long as we have faith we shall not be sick, that we shall not suffer, that we shall not be poor, that we shall not be old, that we shall not be dead, that we shall not be anything but what we are.

Plans are underway to charter a bus for those who expect to attend the rally. Representatives from 18 or 20 Methodist churches plan to attend the rally next week. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, is adult advisor.

34 Freight Cars Pile Up At Paw Paw

Cattle Trapped In 'Worst' B&O Wreck

Described as "one of the worst freight wrecks" ever seen in this area, 34 Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight cars, including three carloads of live cattle, piled up late Saturday night near Paw Paw, W. Va.

The wreck occurred near an old apple warehouse just at the edge of Paw Paw 11:05 p. m. Saturday, blocking both east and westbound tracks of the old line. Traffic was routed over the newer high line with no interruption in service, railroad spokesmen said.

Capt. Harry B. Schmidt of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad police department here last night declared, "It's the worst freight pileup I've ever seen." He estimated that it would take three days to "clear the whole mess up."

At the dispatcher's office, spokesmen said the wreck was caused when a loose wheel on the 18th car behind the diesel caused that car to derail. The 33 cars immediately behind it piled up in a mass of wreckage and debris. More than a quarter-mile of track on both east and westbound rights of way were mangled.

All of the wrecked cars were loaded. The train, a fast freight known as Philadelphia No. 96, eastbound, was traveling a fast clip when the loose wheel let go. None of the train crew, all from Brunswick, was injured.

Part of the wreckage lay in a narrow area through a cut and part of it dropped over each side of the tracks along 20-foot embankments. Much of it was just piled in a 30-foot high tangled mess.

The cars were loaded with miscellaneous freight such as cattle, beer, lettuce, groceries, and numerous other items. Although some of the cars were hurled completely loose from their trucks, they were not broken open.

Work crews were unable to reach the three carloads of cattle for several hours. Some of the cattle managed to struggle free of the entanglement, but others were killed and many were hurt and pinned in the wreck. Crews working on the cleanup concentrated their first efforts upon freeing the trapped and suffering animals.

At the dispatcher's office it was estimated that most of the debris would be cleared off the right-of-way by sometime this morning, but the office concurred with Capt. Schmidt that it would take up to three days to complete the entire cleanup and to get the section in normal operation again.

No rail traffic was delayed, however, because of the proximity of the high line, which remains open.

12,000 See Sports Car Races Here

Dr. Wyllie Wins Cumberland Cup

Over 12,000 persons from the Tri-State area thronged to the Cumberland Municipal Airport yesterday to witness the 1954 Cumberland Sports Car Races.

Jubilant officials of the Lions Club of Cumberland, which sponsored the race, reported plans are underway to make the 1955 sports car race a national event.

Yesterday's races, conducted under perfect weather conditions for both drivers and spectators, was conducted under the technical supervision of the Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America, Inc.

William R. Carscaden, Lions club chairman for the event, said Sports Car Club officials and members expressed pleasure with the event.

Is Accident Free

Top-notch technical supervision, he added, resulted in an accident-free race. The only casualties reported included one person who fainted on a runway and a man who bit his finger while chomping down on a hamburger.

Later, however, Charles Brooks, 18, Marion Avenue, working at one of the concession stands at the races, had to be admitted to Memorial Hospital after he cut his hand with a knife while chipping ice. Hospital attaches said he had to be hospitalized for tendon repairs.

Carscaden said a number of dangerous conditions developed during the races, but that prompt action of the safety director prevented collisions.

Part of the success of the day was attributed to the perfect weather. It was the nicest Sunday since Easter, with cloudless skies and the thermometer pushing 80.

Crowd Is Orderly

The crowd was kept about 30 yards from the track, which was fenced off at the turns with bales of hay.

A National Guardsman who helped handle the crowd said it was one of the most orderly he had seen. "You ask them to stay back from the track," he said, "and they stay back."

Members of the Army and Marine Corps reserve units also helped Lions Club members handle the crowds, and West Virginia State Police and Cumberland Police were directing traffic on roads leading to the airport.

Except for a jam which developed in South Cumberland following the races, traffic was being moved along at all times.

122 Cars In Race

Participating in yesterday's races were drivers of 122 sports cars, representing top amateur drivers of the Eastern United States and the fastest sports cars made in Europe and the United States.

The results of the races follow: Race 1, for novice drivers—W. C. Steele, Detroit, Mich., first; R. C. Zelle, Pittsburgh, second, and J. R. Queen, Cincinnati, third. Steele and Zelle piloted Porsche America cars over the 20-lap, 32-mile course, and Queen, an M.G.

County Schools' Attendance Is Best In State

April attendance in the junior and senior high school divisions of Allegany County public schools was the best for that month in the past five years, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in county schools.

Elementary school attendance was the second best for April in the five-year period.

Meanwhile, Higgins observed that the 86th annual report of the State Board of Education showing the condition of the public schools of Maryland for the year ending June 30, 1952, just received here this week, confirms Allegany County's standing as first in attendance in Maryland.

Best 2-Year Average

One of the many charts in the 240-page report shows that in both the 1951 and 1952 school years Allegany County high school average attendance was better than in the other 22 counties and Baltimore City. Among white schools Allegany led with 95.3 per cent and 94.3 per cent, respectively, in the two years, compared with state averages of 92.1 and 91, respectively. In colored schools, Allegany was tops with 95.9 in 1951 and 95.3 in 1952, whereas state averages were 89 and 86.4 per cent.

In the elementary school comparison for 1952, Allegany white schools were second only to Caroline County, and Allegany's colored schools outranked all others.

For April, the county elementary schools averaged 94.7 per cent. Piney Plains had the highest average, 98.2 per cent, which was its highest for the five years. Other elementary schools with their best April averages in five years were Hill Street, Frostburg, 98.1; Corriganville and Centre Street, both 97.1; Beall Elementary, Frostburg, 96.7, and Gephart, 96.4.

Beall Elementary Leads

In the junior high division, the April average of 94.6 was the best in the five years under comparison. The Beall Elementary seventh grade led with 97.1 per cent. Others with their best marks in five years were Cresaptown, 95.8; Allegany, 95.3; Mt. Savage, 95, and Fort Hill, 93.8 per cent.

The best senior high school average over the past five years was 93.9 per cent. Leading the pack was Beall High School of Frostburg, with 97 per cent, its best for five years. Other best-in-five-year averages were Allegany's 94.8 and Flintstone's 91.6.

As a matter of fact the best April average for the entire county was 99.1 per cent amassed by Lincoln School, the colored school in Frostburg. Carver Junior High had its second best, 96.2, and Carver Senior High reached 96.8 per cent, best in five years.

W. Va. Schoolboy Dies In Fall From B&O Train

Tragedy Mars Trip Of Safety Patrol

A schoolboy homeward bound from a holiday in Washington with the School Boy Patrol was found dead along the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad late Saturday night, a mile west of Sir John's Run, W. Va., apparently the victim of a fall from a train.

He was identified as Charles W. Braden, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Braden, Lake View Drive, Parkersburg, W. Va.

According to Capt. Harry D. Schmidt of the B&O police here, the boy was one of a number of Schoolboy Patrolmen aboard a special train en route to Parkersburg from a national gathering of the youngsters in Washington.

The body was first noticed by the train crew of another special carrying more West Virginia-bound youth patrolmen, lying between the main line tracks a mile west of Sir John's Run. The B&O telegraph operator at Hancock was notified, and a railroad motor car was sent out immediately to pick up the body.

Capt. Schmidt's office here was notified, and the train was held at Piedmont. Capt. Schmidt said a check showed the Braden boy was missing from the train.

"Police, train crew members, teachers serving as chaperones, and a B&O patrolman aboard the special were unable to shed any light on the tragedy. No one had been seen wandering around the coaches. No one had been noticed standing in the car vestibules."

The special passed Hancock at 10:10 p. m. (EST) and reached Sir John's Run five minutes later. The second special was 20 minutes behind.

Capt. Schmidt said a thorough check had been made and a careful investigation had been conducted. He said it appeared that the youngster may have become sick and opened a door to get some air, or may have just been curious.

It appears no one saw the mishap. The boy had partly disrobed, as had many of the other children so they could get a nap before the train reached Parkersburg at 3 a. m. (EST).

State Police, railroad police and other officials were still investigating yesterday, but held little hope that any further light could be shed upon the accident.

The body of the victim was taken to the Hunter Funeral Home at Berkeley, W. Va., and sent to the Stanley Vaughn mortuary at Parkersburg yesterday.

The funeral home said the boy had suffered a head injury in the tumble from the speeding passenger train.

Today's Sermonette

Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have, give I unto you. Acts 3:6.

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at Emmanuel Episcopal Church by the rector, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

BY REV. H. M. RICHARDSON

Whether or not a miracle happened at the gate called Beautiful as related in the third chapter of Acts, has often been obscured from understanding one of the great ways in which God deals with us... what is given is not always what is asked. Two disciples on their way to the temple to say their prayers

Rev. Richardson was approached by one of the innumerable beggars of the city. Whether he was genuinely crippled or one of the all too clever fakirs of the beggars' trade, we do not know. We do know that he received something he did not expect... a hand reached down and grasped his begging palm and pulled him upright, and an intense voice said, "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto you. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." The disciples had no alms to give, but they gave this beggar a basis for real faith, a faith that met him where he was and for whatever he was, and opened up a life of endless possibilities before him.

Today our faith meets us where we are and opens up the possibilities of life for us. This faith proclaims no Utopia, no easy answer to the world's perplexing problems. Our Christianity does not say that as long as we have faith we shall not be sick, that we shall not suffer pain, that we shall be successful in business. No, Christianity says none of that, for it speaks on a much more profound basis. It says that with faith, sickness and pain and even failure are taken in their strides as personal challenges to the strengthening of life to the glory of God. Faith is not a capacity of our souls for refusing to face the facts of living, faith is a capacity or conquering the obstructions of living.

We all know the pride and joy we personally have from accomplishing a job which someone tells us cannot possibly be done. It is a joy which comes because our own personal belief has been vindicated. We see this time and time again in the life of the world. As we all heard the news of the magnificent race run by Roger Bannister in running the mile in less than four minutes recently, I could not help but think of one of those racers who a few years ago tried his best to accomplish this feat but failed although he did set a new record. Glenn Cunningham was at one time the fastest miler in the world, but as a youth he had been so severely burned in a schoolhouse fire that the doctors said that he would never walk again. But walk he did, by hanging on to a plow as it was pulled across the field, and then he ran and finished the race.

Look at Moses as an example of a soul life changed into one of meaning. Spoiled and pampered, living the life of luxury in Pharaoh's household, he was bored by life. Then something happened. Injustice forced him to flee from the court. Then his whole existence was changed, as a common bush burst into unearthly flame. No longer was his life placid, but instead was an area of conflict for the rest of his days. Faith had not only transfigured his surroundings but also changed the whole purpose and meaning of his life.

Or look at one of the great figures of recent history. Madame Curie in actual appearance was no Greer Garson, the movies to the contrary. She did not have the natural charm and beauty that some women are blessed with, but as she lived and struggled in her devotion to her one idea of finding the truth of radium, she became beautiful. In the biography written by her daughter, we find this description: "Those struggles and victories transformed her physically: The solid, rather thickset girl became an ethereal creature." She had caught the light of the things she lived with and they had changed her.

The things we live with do effect our lives. If we live with wages and savings, breakfast dishes and table manners, TV and moving pictures, social life that runs into a mechanical routine, we can hardly expect that we will reflect anything but the poorest qualities of our age. If we are afraid or too lazy to climb hills, then we shall never enjoy a sweeping view either of the country-side, or of life.

There is no avoiding the implications of what life can be through faith. Then, too, there is no way of enjoying faith unless it is acted upon. The Apostles could have shouted until they were hoarse, but the beggar would still have fallen back upon the ground if he had not dared to venture forth in the faith that there in Christ was an answer to a new life. The only secret of the Christian life is no secret at all: it is catching the possibilities of the faith, living within it, and acting upon it.

Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto you. I give you the power of faith, a power that changes the world, a power that changes you.

Brooklyn Couple Hurt On Pike

A Brooklyn, N. Y., couple was injured on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about seven miles west of Bedford early yesterday when their car was struck by a tractor-trailer which crossed the medial line of the highway after its left front tire blew out, according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Injured were Vincenzo Macri, 40, and his wife, Joan, who were headed east on the turnpike when the accident occurred about 3:40 a. m.

Police said Macri sustained contusions of the chest, possible rib fractures and laceration of the forehead. His wife, who was riding beside her husband, had a laceration of the forehead, fracture of the right arm and contusions of the right ankle. They are patients in Bedford Memorial Hospital.

The Macri automobile was damaged to the extent of about $900, police said. The tractor-trailer, headed west on the turnpike when the blowout sent it across the highway's center strip, sustained about $300 damage. The truck driver, Lee Crone of Pittsburgh, Pa., was uninjured.
